Viktor Frankl's Search for Meaning Timothy Pytell, 2015-10-01 This is a scholarly commendable biography and intellectual history Lay readers will be challenged psychologists and historians will be grateful Library Journal starred review First published in 1946 Viktor Frankl's memoir Man's Search for Meaning remains one of the most influential books of the last century selling over ten million copies worldwide and having been embraced by successive generations of readers captivated by its author's philosophical journey in the wake of the Holocaust This long overdue reappraisal examines Frankl's life and intellectual evolution anew from his early immersion in Freudian and Adlerian theory to his development of the third Viennese school amid the National Socialist domination of professional psychotherapy It teases out the fascinating contradictions and ambiguities surrounding his years in Nazi Europe including the experimental medical procedures he oversaw in occupied Austria and a stopover at the Auschwitz concentration camp far briefer than has commonly been assumed Throughout author Timothy Pytell gives a penetrating but fair minded account of a man whose paradoxical embodiment of asceticism celebrity tradition and self reinvention drew together the complex strands of twentieth century intellectual life From the introduction At the same time Frankl's testimony second only to the Diary of Anne Frankin popularity has raised the ire of experts on the Holocaust For example in the 1990s the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington purportedly refused to sell Man's Search for Meaning in the gift shop During the late 1960s and early 1970s Frankl became very popular in America Frankl's survival of the Holocaust his reassurance that life is meaningful and his personal conviction that God exists served to make him a forerunner of the self help genre

No Place for Truth David F. Wells, 1994-12-20 Evangelicals argues Wells have largely lost the truth that God also stands outside all human experience that he still summons sinners to repentance and belief regardless of their self image and that he calls his church to stand fast in his truth against the blandishments of the modern world Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1993

Finding Meaning in Life, at Midlife and Beyond David Guttman, 2008-09-30 Having been mentored by Viktor E Frankl the founder of logotherapy Emeritus Professor David Guttman authored this book so general readers may understand this approach to finding meaning in life at the point when most of us begin deeply wondering over that question at midlife and beyond Especially in this day and age of multiple demands on our time and seemingly non stop obligations we too often find that it is only when the dust settles after a work day or work week or even after retirement when we begin to wonder What is the meaning of life The purpose This book is a new millennium venture into those questions and their answers using logotherapy written by a sage understudy who recalls Frankl with his logotherapy as the epitome of his theory even at 80 years old wise and witty exuding an energy enthusiasm and youthful spirit that belied his years by decades Aging does not diminish our power our energy and our quest for life but reshapes it with new understandings goals and needs But says Guttmann we live in a technical and machine based world now in which there is a danger of losing our souls Here readers find a new creative perspective on aging and a fresh spiritual outlook This book will be of interest not only to general readers especially those at midlife and beyond but also to their families friends and students or professionals in the helping professions This unique work provides knowledge to find meaning in life derived from the fields of philosophy psychology religion and gerontology with case illustrations and vignettes to give readers both intellectual pleasure and practical guidance Paths to Fulfillment

Ruthellen Josselson, 2017-06-09 How do women create fulfilling lives How does the identity they choose or not choose by the end of their college career affect how their lives unfold For 35 years Ruthellen Josselson has followed 25 randomly selected women who graduated from college in the early 1970s Because these women came of age at this particular time in history they were the trailblazers in creating new possibilities for women's lives by taking up meaningful roles in the work world These real women in contrast to the stereotypes of the time took on the challenge in very different ways and championed very different lives for themselves In Paths to Fulfillment Women's Search for Meaning and Identity Josselson traces the stages of these women's lives and the ways in which identity intimacy and care for others over time leads to fulfillment or in some cases a lack of fulfillment She examines the complexity of the relationship between a woman's roots her efforts to create a unique life for herself and how others become part of identity Josselson examines individual lives in depth for clues to understanding the strengths that help a woman to find fulfillment and how in generativity becomes an anchor for meaningful identity as lives unfold With remarkable clarity and insight Josselson challenges simplistic generalizations about women and shows how work love and care are all intertwined in a woman's sense of identity Psychology of Religion

Toward a Global Science Susantha Goonatilake, 1998 Asian science such as mathematics Chinese printing gunpowder and the compass all contributed to the development of European science During the last few centuries however scientific contributions with Asian roots have diminished and been marginalized and deligitimised Yet the center of the world economy today is shifting to Asia with shifts in science and technology bound to follow Toward a Global Science is driven by the proposition that pre Renaissance acquisition of Asian knowledge did not exhaust Asian civilization s potential contribution There are many useful elements to modern science still lying hidden in Asian civilizational stores waiting to be mined The author gives details of recent contributions from South Asian medicine mathematics and psychology and explores how South Asian inputs can be useful in navigating the philosophical and ethical problems raised by two dominant technologies of the future namely biotechnology and information technology As an illustrative example it describes how a fruitful marriage of one technology virtual reality with South Asian philosophy can enliven both the technology as well as philosophy It also examines how Asian positions could be used to feed some key contemporary philosophical discussions on science Using a model of the civilizational construction of science the book views science without Eurocentric blinders It documents how science was built initially by transfers from non European civilizations and why the given historiography of science has to be rethought Throughout the book the author gives examples of parallels and antecedents between East and West in science and estimates the potential reservoir of Asian knowledge in each field The book also deals with the many knotty problems in recovering science from past traditions The author distinguishes between his secular efforts from religious and other attempts that claim the equivalence of all knowledge systems
