Media Computing Chitra Dorai,Svetha Venkatesh,2012-12-06 Traditionally scientific fields have defined boundaries and scientists work on research problems within those boundaries However from time to time those boundaries get shifted or blurred to evolve new fields For instance the original goal of computer vision was to understand a single image of a scene by identifying objects their structure and spatial arrangements This has been referred to as image understanding Recently computer vision has gradually been making the transition away from understanding single images to analyzing image sequences or video understanding Video understanding deals with understanding of video sequences e g recognition of gestures activities facial expressions etc The main shift in the classic paradigm has been from the recognition of static objects in the scene to motion based recognition of actions and events Video understanding has overlapping research problems with other fields therefore blurring the fixed boundaries Computer graphics image processing and video databases have obvious overlap with computer vision The main goal of computer graphics is to generate and animate realistic looking images and videos Researchers in computer graphics are increasingly employing techniques from computer vision to generate the synthetic imagery A good example of this is image based rendering and modeling techniques in which geometry appearance and lighting is derived from real images using computer vision techniques Here the shift is from synthesis to analysis followed by synthesis gnawing African situation the starting point for grasping Africa's social and religious quest Beyond split explanations of external versus internal factors e.g. colonization slavery vs leadership cultural values this study accounts more comprehensively for emergent issues shaping this situation The situation reflects a gamut of problems in traditional African religion and material culture which hitherto defines African communality politics and destinies vis-à-vis the cosmos and nature Thus African religion and communities each with its own attendant values do not operate by critical engagement with larger issues of society and civilization especially those shaped by the advent of post modernity Rather they operate via adaptation The communal drive for natural and social harmony inevitably produces a preservationist view of culture leaving things as they are This study takes an integrative approach to religion society and civilization eschews dichotomies and broadly defines and re-signifies life and wholeness as a true end of Africans quest today
