Experimentally Demonstrated Echolocation in the Amazon River Porpoise, Inia Geoffrensis (Blainville) R. H. Penner,A. E. Murchison,1970 Echolocation and related behavior in the Amazon River porpoise Inia geoffrensis was investigated to demonstrate biological sonar within the context of operant conditioning It was found that the Inia s click train ranged from 25 to 200 kHz major energy was centered approximately at 100 kHz The longest periods of silence for the Inia were 8 sec Corollary behavior exhibited during the performance of the conditioned task indicated a two step sonic appraisal of the stimulus condition Author

Animal Sonar Systems R. Busnel,2013-06-29 Thirteen years have gone by since the first international meeting on Animal Sonar Systems was held in Frascati Italy in 1966 Since that time almost 900 papers have been published on its theme The first symposium was vital as it was the starting point for new research lines whose goal was to design and develop technological systems with properties approaching optimal biological systems There have been highly significant developments since then in all domains related to biological sonar systems and in their applications to the engineering field The time had therefore come for a multidisciplinary integration of the information gathered not only on the evolution of systems used in animal echolocation but on systems theory behavior and neurobiology signal to noise ratio masking signal processing and measures observed in certain species against animal sonar systems Modern electronics technology and systems theory which have been developed only since 1974 now allow designing sophisticated sonar and radar systems applying principles derived from biological systems At the time of the Frascati meeting integrated circuits and technologies exploiting computer science were not well enough developed to yield advantages now possible through use of real time analysis leading to among other things a definition of target temporal characteristics as biological sonar systems are able to do All of these new technical developments necessitate close cooperation between engineers and biologists within the framework of new experiments which have been designed particularly in the past five years

Fay, 2012-12-06 Cetaceans inhabit oceans seas and even some rivers throughout the world Hearing and sound production are thought to serve crucial functions in the behavior natural history or life cycle of all of these animals Although difficulties in studying large aquatic animals have limited experimental auditory research on many species knowledge about the acoustic behavior of these animals has been increasing dramatically In this volume experts in different areas of the field provide an overview of the bioacoustics of whales and dolphins as well as a thorough introduction to the subject for investigators of hearing in other animals Topics covered include the structure and function of cetacean auditory systems the unique sound production system of odontocetes acoustic communication psychoacoustics echolocation and models of sound propagation

Ultrasonics Dale Ensminger, 1988-09-02 Maintaining the features that made the first edition of this book a bestseller Ultrasonics Fundamentals Technology Applications Second Edition describes the basic principles theoretical background and a wide range of applications of ultrasonic energy This edition includes an expanded discussion of beats that now contains mathematical relationships equations for designing large horns an enlarged presentation of transducer designs expanded tabulations of the acoustic properties of materials additional information on nondestructive testing expanded coverage of high intensity ultrasound and additional details regarding the medical applications of ultrasonics

Acoustical Holography A. Metherell, 2012-12-06 Only a space limitation of 115 seats prevented this First International Symposium on Acoustical Holography from having an attendance of over 250 Unfortunately the size of the auditorium of the Douglas Advanced Research Laboratories required that attendance be by invitation only and many deserving and interested scientists could not be present This volume presents the proceedings of the symposium and hopefully will help compensate those individuals who were unable to attend The symposium itself consisted of sixteen formal papers The seventeenth by Dr P Greguss was not received in time to be read but is included in these proceedings The presence of Professor Dennis Gabor considerably enhanced the informal sessions which frequently became as spirited as one might expect in a new field Dr H M A El Sum a consultant to the Douglas Advanced Research Laboratories and a pioneer in the field of holography set the stage with the first paper He provided a general introduction to the physical principles and practical methods involved in optical and acoustical holography His paper also included a summary of various specific techniques currently used in sound holography with the advantages disadvantages and limitations involved for each approach

Bio-mechanisms of Swimming and Flying Naomi Kato, Shinji Kamimura, 2008-01-08 Biomechanics studies of animals in swimming and flying can serve an increasing role in understanding the mechanisms that enable animals to move effectively and efficiently in fluid as well as analyzing the characteristics of their various forms of behavior in fluid The rich variety of mechanisms employed by swimming and flying organisms has long been an inspiration for engineers and scientists These areas of research which form the basis of this volume include the locomotive mechanisms and behaviors of animals in swimming and flying ranging from microorganisms to dolphins from the biological aspect hydrodynamics of swimming and flying biomimetic swimming or flying robots and sports science This book follows Bio mechanisms of Animals in Swimming and Flying published in 2004 including 11 chapters This time the book includes 31 chapters on the latest researches into natural autonomous systems and locomotion in both flying and swimming organisms The area of sports science such as analysis and simulation of human swimming is newly added The computational frameworks for the modeling simulation and optimization of animals in swimming and flying demonstrate an important role in the progress of interdisciplinary work in the fields of biology and engineering An innovative technology is exhibited for the flight of an insect size micro air vehicle Neuronal science is not only unveiling the locomotion mechanisms of swimming in fish from the aspect of the neuronal activities but also applied to underwater biomimetic robots The interdisciplinary works are exhibited in the fields of biology and engineering yielding real world benefits in innovative technologies
