Isham, 2004 This book explores the unprecedented surge or oceanic feeling in the aesthetic expression of the romantic century As secular thought began to displace the certainties of a sacral universe the oceans that give life to our planet offered a symbol of eternity rooted in the experience of nature rather than Biblical tradition Images of the sea permeated the minds of the early Romantics became a significant ingredient of romantic opportunities In the Caribbean and Atlantic coast of the Americas European mariners sought everything from pearls to gold to codfish and in pursuing these resources they fractured Indigenous communities Entering into the ancient monsoon routes of the Indian Ocean brought European ships in touch with the powerful states and maritime cultures of East Africa and Asia Converging on the vast Pacific basin both from the Americas and from Asia brought these mariners into contact with ancient cultures dangerous passages and newly global trade routes During this period of globalization and cultural encounters the ocean provided a means of transportation a site of environmental hostility and a poetic metaphor for both connection and alienation In material and cultural ways the global sea routes traveled during this period laid down structures of global exchange and conflict that the world still follows today

Voyages of the Self Barbara Novak, 2009-05-15 Barbara Novak is one of America's premier art historians the author of the seminal books American Painting of the Nineteenth Century and Nature and Culture the latter of which was named one of the Ten Best Books of the Year by The New York Times and was nominated for a National Book Critics Circle Award Now with Voyages of the Self this esteemed critic completes the trilogy begun with the two earlier works offering once again an exhilarating exploration of American art and culture In this book Novak explores several inspired pairings of key writers and painters drawing insightful parallels between such masters as John Singleton Copley and Jonathan Edwards Winslow Homer and William James Frederic Edwin Church and Walt Whitman and Jackson Pollock and Charles Olson Through these and other groupings Novak tracks the varied meanings of the self in America in which the most salient characteristics of each artist or writer is shown to draw from and in turn influence the larger map of American life Two major threads weaving through the book are the American preoccupation with the object and our continuing return to pragmatism Novak notes for instance how Copley's art mirrors the puritan denial of self found in Jonathan Edwards and how as colonial scientists they share an interest in sensation and observation She sees Winslow Homer and William James as practitioners of a pragmatic self grounded in an immediate experience that looks for concrete results Through such fruitful comparisons whether between Copley and Edwards or Lane and Emerson or Ryder and Dickinson Novak sheds unmatched light on our nation s artistic heritage Wonderfully illustrated with dozens of black and white pictures and sixteen full color plates here is a stunning work that yields a wealth of insight into American art and culture and concludes Novak s landmark trilogy The Bloomsbury Handbook of Religion and Nature Laura Hobgood, Whitney A. Bauman, 2018-05-17 Divided into four parts Earth Air Fire and Water this book takes an elemental approach to the study of religion and ecology It reflects recent theoretical and methodological developments in this field which seek to understand the ways that ideas and matter minds and bodies exist together within an immanent frame of reference The Bloomsbury Handbook of Religion and Nature focuses on how these matters materialize in the world around us thereby addressing key topics in this area of study The editors provide an extensive introduction to the book as well as useful introductions to each of its parts The volume s international contributors are drawn from the USA South Africa Netherlands Norway Indonesia and South Korea and offer a variety of perspectives voices cultural settings and geographical locales This handbook shows that human concern and engagement with material existence is present in all sectors of the global community regardless of religious tradition It challenges the traditional methodological approach of comparative religion and argues that globalization renders a comparative religious approach to the environment insufficient
