Curio, 2012-12-06 Predation is an ecological factor of almost universal importance for the biologist who aims at an understanding of the habits and structures of animals Despite its pervasive nature opinions differ as to what predation really is So far it has been defined only in negative terms it is thought not to be parasitism the other great process by which one organism harms another nor filter feeding carrion eating or browsing Accordingly one could define predation as a process by which an animal spends some effort to locate a live prey and in addition spends another effort to mutilate or kill it According to this usage of the word a nudibranch for example that feeds on hydroids would be a predator inasmuch as it needs some time to locate colonies of its prey which after being located scarcely demand more than eating which differs little from browsing From the definition just proposed consumption of the prey following its capture has been intentionally omitted Indeed an animal may be disposed of without being eaten Hence the biological significance of predation may be more than to maintain nutritional homeostasis In fact predation may have
