Explanations Craig McGarty, Vincent Y. Yzerbyt, Russell Spears, 2002-08-08 Stereotyping is one of the biggest single issues in social psychology but relatively little is known about how and why stereotypes form This is the first book to explore the process of stereotype formation the way that people develop impressions and views of social groups Conventional approaches to stereotyping assume that stereotypes are based on erroneous and distorted processes but the authors of this book take a very different view namely that stereotypes form in order to explain aspects of social groups and in particular to explain relationships between groups Social Metacognition Pablo Briñol, Kenneth G. DeMarree, 2012 Metacognition refers to thinking about our own thinking It has assumed a prominent role in social judgment because our thoughts about our thoughts can magnify attenuate or even reverse the impact of primary cognition Metacognitive thoughts can also produce changes in thought feeling and behavior and thus are critical for a complete understanding of human social behavior The present volume presents the most important and advanced research areas in social psychology where the role of metacognition has been studied Specifically the chapters of this book are organized into four substantive content areas Attitudes and Decision Making Self and Identity Experiential and Interpersonal Each section consists in several chapters summarizing much of the work done in recent decades on critical topics such as attitude strength persuasion bias correction self regulation subjective feelings embodiment and prejudice among others This book also emphasizes interpersonal aspects of metacognition as they play an essential role in close relationships groups consumer and clinical interactions Each chapter is written by an expert in the field and presents a state of the art view of the many ways metacognition has been examined by social psychologists Educational and Social Dimensions of Digital Transformation in Organizations Peres,
