Metamorphosizing the Novel Marilyn Roberson Elkins, 1993 Transforming Memories in Contemporary Women's Rewriting L. Plate, 2010-12-08 Including topics as diverse as feminism and its relationship to the marketplace plagiarism and copyright silence and forgetting and myth in a digital age this book explores the role of rewriting within feminist literature from the 1970s onwards in relation to the theme of cultural memory The Other Side of the Story Molly Hite, 2018-03-05 According to Molly Hite a number of influential contemporary women novelists notably Jean Rhys Doris Lessing Alice Walker and Margaret Atwood attempt innovations in narrative form that are more radical in their implications than the dominant modes of fictional experimentation characterized as postmodernist In The Other Side of the Story Hite makes the point that these innovations which distinguish the genre she calls contemporary feminist narrative are more radical precisely because their context is the critique of a culture and a literary tradition apprehended as profoundly masculinist Metamorphosis and the Emergence of the Feminine Paula Smith Allen, 1999 Women writers from both North and South America including those from different ethnic groups in the United States employ the motif of insect and seed metamorphosis which shows a development of the motif in stages as women increasingly become aware of the existence of a feminine self that is not acknowledged in language The use of the motif by these writers separated by both distance and influence is an attempt by women writers to reject the casting of women's experience in the archetypal images of Persephone and Penelope as was traditionally assigned to the feminine by Western civilization
