Methodology of Theory Building Elizabeth Steiner,1988-01      Theory Building Robert Dubin,1978      Theory Building in Applied Disciplines Richard A. Swanson,Thomas J. Chermack,2013-08-05 A Comprehensive Method Tools and Techniques for Building Sound Theory Richard Swanson and Thomas Chermack present a complete five step approach for developing sound theory in applied disciplines from conceptualizing a theory to creating relevant assessment criteria establishing a research agenda to test the theory s validity applying the theoretical concepts in the real world and using that experience to further refine and improve the theory The method is not restricted to any single discipline nor is it limited by any research ideology The authors provide a set of tools for each phase of the process making this book accessible to a wide audience And in addition to examples in each chapter they offer two extended case examples of full theory building

Theory Building in Applied Disciplines Richard A. Swanson,Thomas J. Chermack,2013-08-05 Theory matters in applied disciplines fields that apply scholarly research to professional practice such as management social work health care human resource development education and many others Because these disciplines deal with human beings in the real world a flawed theory can result in actual harm to people and institutions When faced with a professional problem practitioners resort to the latest fad or simply throw everything and anything at it because of the lack of sound theory Scholars deal with problems by slicing them into small segments to study them but fail to address the practical implications What s needed is a way to unite research and practice to create robust theory This is exactly what Richard Swanson and Thomas Chermack offer here a complete five step method for developing sound field tested theory in applied disciplines Unlike many existing methods which cover only the initial conceptualization of a theory the authors offer a complete approach from conceptualizing a theory to creating relevant assessment criteria establishing a research agenda to test the theory s validity applying the theoretical concepts in the real world and using that experience to further refine and improve the theory The method is not restricted to any single discipline nor is it beholden to any research ideology Swanson and Chermack provide a set of tools for each phase of the process making this book accessible and applicable to a wide audience And in addition to examples in each chapter they offer two extended case examples of complete theory building With flawed theories impeding the development of many applied disciplines this book is desperately needed

Foundations of Human Resource Development, Reinventing (with) Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies Andrea Alden, Kendall Gerdes, Judy Holiday, Ryan Skinnell, 2019-10-21 Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies collects original scholarship that takes up and extends the practices of inventive theorizing that characterize Sharon Crowley's body of work Including sixteen chapters by established and emerging scholars and an interview with Crowley the book shows that doing theory is a contingent and continual rhetorical process that is indispensable for understanding situations and their potential significance and for discovering the available means of persuasion For Crowley theory is a basic building block of rhetoric produced by and within specific times and locations as a means of opening other ways of believing or acting Doing theory in this sense is the practice of surveying the common sense of the community doxa and discovering the available means of persuasion invention The ultimate goal of doing theory is not to prescribe certain actions but to ascertain what options exist for rhetors to see the world differently to discover new possibilities for thought and action and thereby to effect change in the world The scholarship collected in Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies takes Crowley's notion of theory as an invitation to develop new avenues for believing and acting. By reinventing the understanding of theory and its role in the field, this collection makes an important contribution to scholarship in rhetorical studies and writing studies. It will be valuable to scholars, teachers, and students interested in diverse theoretical directions in rhetoric and writing studies as well as in race, gender, and disability theories, religious rhetorics, digital rhetoric, and the history of rhetoric. Publication supported in part by the Texas Tech University Humanities Center. Methodology, Theory, and Knowledge in the Managerial and Organizational Sciences Eliezer Geisler, 1999-06-30. Geisler argues that the over-reliance on co-variation techniques and statistical methods instead of process approach and in-depth analysis produces meaningless knowledge in the managerial and organizational sciences and indeed throughout all the social sciences. He offers instead a new and different approach based on the notion of what he calls dynamic morphologies: an architecture of slicing complex phenomena. This way it is possible to explain many inconsistencies in research findings and to find a cohesive systematic outlook on research, research design, and knowledge creation. Intellectually challenging and following in the footsteps of Kuhn, Argyris, and Popper, Geisler's approach is frankly revolutionary in research design and contains its own notions, terms, and nomenclature. A provocative discussion for academics and others well-trained in the organizational, managerial, and social sciences. Geisler's dynamic morphologies provide a means to research complex phenomena and gain knowledge about them. They are composed of a chain of events combined logically and temporally and a method by which this process is studied. Geisler also contends that knowledge in the organizational and managerial sciences is only viable when it describes and explains the complex higher-order phenomena. Therefore, theory building and research in these fields must be linked to higher-order constructs and the phenomena that they attempt to explain. This is the central notion of amplitude that Geisler introduces and describes. His book also criticizes the evolutionary epistemology view of knowledge creation and contends that knowledge in all of these fields of study in general is not evolutionary but instead cumulative and expansive.

Methodologies for the Rhetoric of Health & Medicine Lisa Meloncon, J. Blake Scott, 2017-07-06. This volume charts new methodological territories for rhetorical studies and the emerging field of the rhetoric of health and medicine.
