Northern Europe:

The U.S. and Northern Europe United States. Congress. House. Committee on International Relations. Subcommittee on Europe, 2004 A Short History of the Renaissance in Northern Europe Malcolm Vale, 2020-04-02 The concept of a Northern European Renaissance in the arts in thought and in more general culture north of the Alps often evokes the idea of a cultural transplant which was not indigenous to or rooted in the society from which it emerged Classic definitions of the European Renaissance during the 14th 15th and 16th centuries have often seen it as an Italian import of for example humanism and classical learning into the Gothic North There were certainly differences between North and South which have to be addressed not least in the development of the visual arts In this book Malcolm Vale argues for a Northern Renaissance which while cognisant of Italian developments had a life of its own expressed through such innovations as a rediscovery of pictorial space and representational realism and which displayed strong continuities with the indigenous cultures of northern Europe But it also contributed new movements and tendencies in thought the visual arts literature religious beliefs and the dissemination of knowledge which often stemmed from and built upon those continuities A Short History of the Renaissance in Northern Europe while in no way ignoring or diminishing the importance of the Greek and Roman legacy seeks other sources and different uses of classical antiquity for a rather different kind of Renaissance in the North

The Megaliths of Northern Europe Magdalena Midgley, 2008-07 The North European megaliths are among the most enduring structures built in prehistory they are imbued with symbolic meanings which embody physical and conceptual ideas about the nature of the world inhabited by the first Northern farmers The Megaliths of Northern Europe provides a much needed up to date synthesis of the material available on these monuments incorporating the results of recent research in Holland Germany Denmark and Sweden This research has brought to light new data on the construction of the megaliths and their role in the cultural landscape and Magdalena Midgley offers a fascinating interpretation of the symbolism of megalithic tombs within the context of early farming communities This wealth of new evidence suggests the Northern European megaliths were important foci in the wider north west European context The construction of dolmens and passage graves using huge glacial boulders demanded both great communal effort and considerable skill In addition to this technical expertise the master builders also made use of their esoteric knowledge of rituals This was expressed in the use of exotic building materials and special architectural features and in the placement of tombs within the natural and cultural landscapes creating new metaphors and images Fully illustrated this book will be of interest to both undergraduate and postgraduate students of European Prehistory Archaeology and Prehistoric Anthropology as well as architects who study ancient architecture and social anthropologists who study modern megaliths

Local Societies in Bronze Age Northern Europe Nils Anfinset, Melanie Wrigglesworth, 2014-10-14 This book aims to understand the process of the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which are often regarded as the periphery and a bleak contrast to the Central European Bronze Age The Bronze Age is the first globalised period with new types of societies and new modes of exchange and trade In this context there is considerable local variation and diversity within the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which is poorly understood although there have been advances and changes in this research Therefore this book challenges some of the mainstream opinions on the Bronze Age of Northern Europe and focus on local and regional aspects This is done by a series of articles from significant contributors that deal with these issues on theoretical and empirical levels with regards to differences cultural dualism boundaries regions and regionality in a period of increased globalisation The result is a movement away from local and regional aspects toward communications travels and contacts between northern Europe and the greater world not only towards Central Europe and the Near East but also towards the east Northern Arctic Europe is often left out in these discussions and this book will contribute to this greater picture of the Bronze Age world

Friendship, Love, and Brotherhood in Medieval Northern Europe, c. 1000-1200 Lars Hermanson, 2019-05-15 In this book Lars Hermanson discusses how religious beliefs and norms steered attitudes to friendship and love and how these ways of thinking affected social identity and political behaviour With examples taken from eleventh and twelfth century northern Europe the author investigates why friendship was praised both by brotherhoods of aristocratic warriors and by brethren within monastery walls Social and political functions rested on personal connections rather than a strong central state in the High Middle Ages This meant that friendship was an important pragmatic instrument for establishing social order and achieving success in the game of politics landscapes Estate or manorial landscapes were distinctive elements within the historic landscape and created their own character Marked by larger scale fields associated with the home or demesne farm as well as a higher proportion of woodland and timber trees the landscapes reflected the scale of the resources available to the landowner and the control they exerted over the local communities But they also represented the performative aspects of life for the elite such as their engagement with hunting While existing works have tended to emphasize the economic and agricultural aspect of estate landscapes this volume draws out the social cultural and political impact of manors and estates on landscapes throughout northern Europe The chapters provide insights into a broad range of histories such as the social worlds of burghers and nobility in the Dutch Republic or the relationship between the distribution of land and the agitation for electoral reform in nineteenth century England Elsewhere in Scandinavia the impact of the reformation and conquest in Norway is balanced against the continuity of ownership in Sweden where developing the natural resources for industrial enterprise such as ironworks and sawmills brought in new owners Estate Landscapes in Northern Europe is the first product of the collaboration of researchers from Norway Germany Sweden the United Kingdom Denmark and the Netherlands joined together in the European Network for Country House and Estate Research ENCOUNTER Handbook for Northern Europe; Including Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, and Russia.
