Not Under Forty Willa Cather, 2013-04-03 For Willa Cather the world broke in two in 1922 or thereabouts The whole legacy of Western civilization stood on the far side of World War I and in the spiritually impoverished present she looked back to that To that she directed readers of these essays declaring that anyone under forty years old would not be interested in them But she was wrong since its first publication in 1936 Not Under Forty has appealed to readers of all ages who share Cather's concern for excellence for what endures in literature and in life

Not Under Forty Willa Cather, 2020-07-16 We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive classic literature collection This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos Also in books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy We use state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works My trip into the mountains was wholly successful All the suggestions the old lady had given me proved excellent and I felt very grateful to her I stayed away longer than I had intended I returned to Aix les Bains late one night got up early the next morning and went to the bank feeling that Aix is always a good place to come back to When I returned to the hotel for lunch there was the old lady sitting in a chair just outside the door looking worn and faded Why since she had her car and her driver there she had not run away from the heat I do not know But she had stayed through it and gone out sketching every morning She greeted me very cordially asked whether I had an engagement for the evening and suggested that we should meet in the salon after dinner Not Under Forty Willa Cather, 2019-10-15 For Willa Cather the world broke in two in 1922 or thereabouts The whole legacy of Western civilization stood on the far side of World War I and in the spiritually impoverished present she looked back to that To that she directed readers of these essays declaring that anyone under forty years old would not be interested in them But she was wrong Not Under Forty (ILLUSTRATED) Willa Cather, 2021-06-14 For Willa Cather the world broke in two in 1922 or thereabouts The whole legacy of Western civilization stood on the far side of World War I and in the spiritually impoverished present she looked back to that My Mortal Enemy and Not Under Forty Willa Cather, Acino Acinonyx, 2014-10-11 Myra and her husband Oswald return to their fictional hometown of Parthia Illinois to visit their relatives Nellie and Aunt Lydia then leave to spend the Christmas holiday in New York City with them They live on Madison Square They dine with Ewan Gray a friend who has an infatuation with another actress Esther Sinclair Oswald receives silver buttons for his shirt from an old Western acquaintance and asks Lydia to pretend she gave them to him to thwart his wife's jealousy Later Myra and Nellie go to the opera in a loge they spot an erstwhile friend of Myra's which makes her sad Later they take a hansom around a park and chance upon a rich acquaintance of Myra's which leads her to be scornful over her own poverty They spend Christmas dinner with friends of the Henshawes both artists and people of privilege Later they spend New Year's Eve with artists again A few days later Nellie witnesses the Henshawes argue the husband takes her out to lunch Soon after she and her aunt are to return to Illinois On the train they are joined by Myra who has argued with her husband again and is going to visit a friend in Pittsburg for a change of scenery Ten years later Nellie moved into a shabby flat in a little town on the west coast and bumps into the Henshawes Myra is now bedridden and Oswald works full time their upstairs neighbours are atrociously noisy regardless Myra's illness Nellie takes to visiting her at tea time she also takes her out by the sea Myra expresses her regrets over her husband If she had not married him her great uncle would have bequeathed her his fortune Instead she eloped and he gave it away to the church Oswald takes to having lunch with a young woman Once Nellie asks her why she is so harsh on her husband and Myra dismisses her Shortly after her condition gets worse She dismisses everyone and runs away she is found dead by the seaside the following day Her husband expresses no remorse about his wife he loved her despite her difficult conduct After her death he moves to Alaska and later Nellie hears about his death It has been suggested that the novel represents the bitter apotheosis of the issues of exile Cather worked on all of her life Book 2 Not Under Forty For Willa Cather the world broke in two in 1922 or thereabouts The whole legacy of Western civilization stood on the far side of World War I and in the spiritually impoverished present she looked back to that To that she directed readers of these essays declaring that anyone under forty years old would not be interested in them But she was wrong since its first publication in 1936 Not Under Forty has appealed to readers of all ages who share Cather's concern for excellence for what endures in literature and in life Reviews What seems at first deceptively a random gathering of essays anecdotal and critical interspersed finally reveals itself as a unified musing on the accusatory contrast between a great dignified past and a huckstering ugly present Notes and Queries Full of personal reflections and of promptings not apparent to the casual reader and so all the more welcome We have too little of such writing off the record Yale Review In all of these essays so familiar so personal on the surface Miss Cather's continuing stress upon what impresses her in really good literature is evident It is the immense pains of learning to write the long struggle to escape from the tyranny of mere words from the shows and affectations of approximate renderings of reality into the calm assurance of truth which seem to her the stairway to greatness H S Canby Saturday Review of Literature Not Under Forty Willa Cather, 2024-11-24 Not Under Forty is the last book published in Cather's lifetime 1873-1947 It is a collection of six essays that critique various writers and the craft of writing in general Whatever is felt upon the page without being specifically named there that one might say is created It is the inexplicable presence of the thing not named of the overtone divined by the ear but not heard by it the verbal mood the emotional aura of the fact or the thing or the deed that gives high quality to the novel or the drama as well as to poetry itself The higher processes are all processes of simplification The novelist must learn to write and then he must unlearn it just as the modern painter learns to draw and then learns when utterly to disregard his accomplishment when to subordinate it to a higher and truer effect There is a popular superstition that realism asserts itself in the cataloguing of a great number of material objects in explaining mechanical processes the methods of operating manufactories and trades and in minutely and unsparingly describing physical sensations But is not realism more than it is anything else an attitude of mind on the part of the writer toward his material a vague indication of the sympathy and candour with which he accepts rather than chooses his theme
