Risky Marriage Melissa Browning, 2013-10-29 Given that women and girls carry the heaviest burdens of the African HIV pandemic their lived experiences should be the starting point for any pedagogy of prevention In light of this claim Risky Marriage HIV and Intimate Relationships in Tanzania uses qualitative fieldwork with HIV positive women living in Mwanza Tanzania to ask why marriage is an HIV risk factor By beginning with women's experience as a hermeneutical lens this book seeks to establish a creative space where African women can imagine new alternatives to HIV prevention that would promote human flourishing and abundant life in African communities The aim of this book is to listen faithfully to the lived experiences of HIV positive women and ask how their experiences can help us re-imagine Christian conceptions of marriage sexual ethics and health in an HIV positive world By drawing on the unwritten texts of women's lives this study proposes alternative pedagogies for faith-based prevention methods and contributes to the wider interdisciplinary and theo-ethical discourse on HIV prevention and women's health At the same time it makes local impact of equal importance as women in East African communities are invited to think creatively about ways to end the HIV pandemic For more information and comments from the author watch a trailer for the book here <http://vimeo.com/semafilms/riskymarriage>

What Democracy Looks Like Amy Schrager Lang, Cecelia Tichi, 2006 The convergence of activists in Seattle during the World Trade Organization meetings captured the headlines in 1999 These demonstrations marked the first major expression on U.S. soil of worldwide opposition to inequality privatization and political and intellectual repression This turning point in world politics coincided with an ongoing quandary in academia particularly in the humanities where the so-called death of theory has left the field on tenuous footing In What Democracy Looks Like the editors and twenty-seven contributors argue that these crises in the world and the academy are not unrelated The essays insist that in the wake of Seattle teachers and scholars of American literature and culture are faced with the challenge of addressing new points of intersection between American studies and literary studies The narrative the poem the essay and the drama need to be reexamined in ways that are relevant to the urgent social and political issues of our time Collectively urging scholars and educators to pay fresh attention to the material conditions out of which literature arises this path-breaking book inaugurates a new critical realism in American literary studies It provides a crucial link in the growing need to merge theory and practice with the goal of reconnecting the ivory tower elite to the activists on the street
