Paradigms And Barriers How Habits Of Mind Govern Scientific Beliefs:

Paradigms and Barriers Howard Margolis, 1993-08-15 In Paradigms and Barriers Howard Margolis offers an innovative interpretation of Thomas S Kuhn's landmark idea of paradigm shifts applying insights from cognitive psychology to the history and philosophy of science Building upon the arguments in his acclaimed Patterns Thinking and Cognition Margolis suggests that the breaking down of particular habits of mind of critical barriers is key to understanding the processes through which one model or concept is supplanted by another Margolis focuses on those revolutionary paradigm shifts such as the switch from a Ptolemaic to a Copernican worldview where challenges to entrenched habits of mind are marked by incomprehension or indifference to a new paradigm Margolis argues that the critical problem for a revolutionary shift in thinking lies in the robustness of the habits of mind that reject the new ideas relative to the habits of mind that accept the new ideas Margolis applies his theory to famous cases in the history of science offering detailed explanations for the transition from Ptolemaic to cosmological astronomy the emergence of probability the overthrow of phlogiston and the emergence of the central role of experiment in the seventeenth century He in turn uses these historical examples to address larger issues especially the nature of belief formation and contemporary debates about the nature of science and the evolution of scientific ideas Howard Margolis is a professor in the Harris Graduate School of Public Policy Studies and in the College at the University of Chicago He is the author of Selfishness Altruism and Rationality and Patterns Thinking and Cognition both published by the University of Chicago Press

An Introduction to Discourse Analysis James Paul Gee, 2005 Assuming no prior knowledge of linguistics the author presents both a theory of language in use a method of research This new edition has been completely revised with substantial new material fully updated references Dealing with Risk Howard Margolis, 1997-12-22 For decades policymakers and analysts have been frustrated by the stubborn and often dramatic disagreement between experts and the public on acceptable levels of environmental risk Most experts for instance see no severe problem in dealing with nuclear waste given the precautions and safety levels now in place Yet public opinion vehemently rejects this view repudiating both the experts analysis and the evidence In Dealing with Risk Howard Margolis moves beyond the usual rival rationalities explanation proffered by risk analysts for the rift between expert and lay opinion He reveals the conflicts of intuition that undergird those concerns and proposes a new approach to the psychology of persuasion and belief Examining the role of intuition mental habits and cognitive frameworks in the construction of public opinion this compelling account bridges the public policy impasse that has plagued controversial environmental issues

Choosing an Identity Sun-Ki Chai, 2010-05-06 Social science research is fragmented by the widely differing and seemingly contradictory approaches used by the different disciplines of the social sciences to explain human action Attempts at integrating different social science approaches to explain action have often been frustrated by the difficulty of incorporating cultural assumptions into rational choice theories without robbing them of their generality or making them too vague for predictions Another problem has been the major disagreements among cultural theorists regarding the ways in which culture affects preferences and beliefs This book provides a general model of preference and belief formation addressing the largest unresolved issue in rational choice theories of action It attempts to play a bridging role between these approaches by augmenting and modifying the main ideas of the rational choice model to make it more compatible with empirical findings in other fields The resulting model is used to analyze three major unresolved issues in the developing world the sources of a government's economic ideology the origins of ethnic group boundaries and the relationship between modernization and violence Addressing theoretical problems that cut across numerous disciplines this work will be of interest to a diversity of theoretically minded scholars Sun Ki Chai is Assistant Professor of Sociology University of Arizona

Organizational Routines Markus C. Becker, Nathalie Lazaric, 2009-01-01 One of the major challenges facing organization studies has been for a long time to develop an operational content to the notion of routines This book offers important advances in this direction both conceptually and through illuminating case studies Giovanni Dosi Sant Anna School of Advanced Studies Pisa Italy This book showcases advanced empirical research that applies the concept of organizational routines to understanding organizations and how they change and evolve The contributions gathered in the book cover qualitative quantitative and archival methods for empirical research applying the concept of organizational routines Specific issues highlighted include the use of event sequence methods in the analysis of organizational routines the impact of standard operating procedures on recurrent behaviour patterns and the stability resilience and change of organizational routines The book thus provides an overview of different empirical methods applied to study organizational routines and of their prerequisites analytical power and contribution This comprehensive book will be of great interest to scholars and postgraduate students in the fields of organization theory strategy and organization behaviour Researchers in organization management and economic science organizational change and evolutionary theories will also find this book invaluable

René Girard and Creative Reconciliation Vern Neufeld Redekop, Thomas Ryba, 2014-01-09 The contribution of this book to the field of reconciliation is both theoretical and practical recognizing that good theory guides effective practice and practice is the ground for compelling theory Using a Girardian hermeneutic as a starting point a new conceptual Gestalt emerges in these essays one not fully integrated in a formal way but showing a clear understanding of some of the challenges and possibilities for dealing with the deep divisions enmity hatred and other effects of violence By situating discourse about reconciliation within the context of Girardian thought it becomes clear that like Peter who vowed he would never deny Jesus but ended up doing it three times any of us is susceptible to the siren call of angry resentment and retaliation It is with a profound awareness of the power of violence that the emergence of mimetic discourse around reconciliation takes on particular urgency

Leadership or Chaos Norman Schofield, Maria Gallego, 2011-08-03 Combining elements of economic reasoning and political science has proven to be very useful for understanding the broad variation in economic development around the world In a sense research in this field goes back to the Scottish Enlightenment and Adam Smith's original plan in his Theory of Moral Sentiments and Wealth of Nations Leadership or Chaos by Norman Schofield and Maria Gallego is intended as an advanced self contained text in political economy dealing with social choice The theory and empirical analysis are used to examine democratic institutions and elections in the developed world and the success or failure of moves to democratization in the less developed world The book closes with a consideration of current quandaries with regard to political and economic stability and climate change and a discussion of the moral foundations of our society

After Popper, Kuhn and Feyerabend R. Nola, H. Sankey, 2012-12-06 Some think that issues to do with scientific method are last century's stale debate Popper was an advocate of methodology but Kuhn Feyerabend and others are alleged to have brought the debate about its status to an end The papers in this volume show that issues in methodology are still very much alive Some of the papers reinvestigate issues in the debate over methodology while others set out new ways in which the debate has developed in the last decade The book will be of interest to philosophers and scientists alike in the reassessment it provides of earlier debates about method and current directions of research

The Interaction of Complexity and Management

Michael R. Lissack, 2002-11-30 What is complexity science What is management And how are the two linked The potential of complexity science in the fields of management and organization studies has been explored before yet there is little agreement on what complexity science truly is Lissack and Rivkin along with a panel of distinguished academics and executives identify critical topics in the study of complexity science They reveal complexity science to be a process one seeking and understanding of the systems we inhabit and ways of applying that understanding to the management of organizations Complexity science is not a management fad and the authors do not treat it as such Instead they offer useful and fascinating viewpoints on how work is managed in an age of business uncertainty and how it can be more successfully managed with the aid of this rapidly evolving new field of science Their multidisciplinary book combines systems theory statistical modeling and individual and organizational learning in an innovative new context The volume takes a pragmatic approach if it works it's right And complexity science say the authors work extremely well This book is an important resource for upper level executives specialists in organizational behavior and their colleagues in the academic community healthcare Guided Reflection Christopher Johns, 2009-02-12 Reflection is widely recognised as an invaluable tool in health care providing fresh insights which enable practitioners to develop their own practice and improve the quality of their care This book introduces the practitioner to the concept of Guided reflection an innovative research process in which the practitioner is assisted by a mentor or guide in a process of self enquiry development and learning through reflection in order to become fully effective Guided reflection is grounded in individual practice and can provide deeply meaningful insights into self development and professional care The process results in a reflexive narrative which highlights key issues for enhancing health care practice and professional care This book uses a collection of such narratives from everyday clinical practice in nursing health visiting and midwifery to demonstrate the theory and practicalities of guided reflection and narrative construction These narratives portray the values inherent in caring highlight key issues in clinical practice reveal the factors that constrain the quest to realise practice and examine the ways practitioners work towards overcoming these constraints

What Counts as Literacy? Margaret A. Gallego, Sandra Hollingsworth, 2000 This critical exploration of the theories and purposes of literacy challenges current assumptions about the discourse of schooling Authors Margaret Anne Gallego and Sandra Hollingsworth along with eminent scholars delve into the lives and literacies that have traditionally been excluded from public classrooms and focus on the disenfranchisement that results from such politics They propose an alternative set of literacies helping non mainstream students to learn the dominant language of power while preserving their community and personal identities Through socio political analyses the contributors argue persuasively for expanding what counts as literacy to include visual media and technological literacy multiple sign systems for special education students community based literacy and personal literacies This practical and fresh collection is an essential resource for educators theorists and researchers who wish to expand the existing definitions of literacy to include multiple perspectives African American Males in School and Society Vernon C. Polite, James Earl Davis, 1999-10 In this groundbreaking and timely volume Vernon Polite and James Davis have brought together the perspectives and research findings of eminent scholars who study the educational and social lives of African American males The result is a volume that brims with new outlooks and viewpoints a refreshing departure from pervasive and oftentimes stereotypical literature about the African American male experience and gives the reader access to prevalent issues affecting this population today Thoughtful attention is paid to broader outcomes such as educational attainment job procurement and quality of life These topics are discussed against the backdrop of student background and schooling with an overall aim to improve the academic and social outcomes of this population Chapters range from explorations into identifying giftedness and responsive teaching styles to educating African American males in the suburbs The contributors to this volume offer differing methodologies and foci to document how the social and educational worlds of African American males cross and the editors suggest policy implications that derive from these studies This eloquent engaging and accessible volume has much to offer its readers and is especially important to people concerned with the well being of African American boys and men
