Music and the Modern Condition: Investigating the Boundaries Ljubica Ilic, 2016-04-29 Two crucial moments in the formation and disintegration of musical modernity and the musical canon occurred at the turn of the seventeenth and the first half of the twentieth century Dr Ljubica Ilic provides a fresh and close look at these moments exploring the ways musical compositions shift to and away from ideological structures identified with modernity The focus is on European art music whose grand narrative defined by tonality and teleological development begins in the seventeenth century and ends with twentieth century modernisms This particular musical language game coincides with historical changes in the phenomenological understanding of space and selfhood A key concept of the book concerns musical compositions that remain without proper conclusions if the wholesome musical work is a manifestation of wholesome subjectivity the pieces Ilic explores deny it reflecting conflict of the individual with previous beliefs with contexts and even within the self as the basic modern condition The musical work is in this case still bounded and well defined but fractured by the incapability or refusal to satisfactorily conclude the implicit cut forced upon it changes the expected musical flow or speaking in spatial terms it influences the musical form By using the metaphor of space Ilic explores how the existence of a separate self as a primary feature of Western modernity becomes negotiated through awareness of the subject's own independence and individuality innerness as something entirely separate from its surroundings and the collective space of social interaction Seeing musical storytelling as a metaphoric representation of selfhood and modernity as a historical continuum Ilic examines the boundaries and relationships between the musical work the subject and modern European history

Michaels,2010-12-13 The poet ceases Something has changed He has reached his goal but somehow remains undone His soul has received as nourishment the odes he writes yet he cannot rest Or might it be possible that rest has now become enduring and no change appears to mind Either way he has been instructed to stop Something has been completed even if not him He counts the manuscripts upon the shelf They are nine in number and the digit feels complete The nine play host to more than one thousand of the odes each and every one a blessing to be discovered and savored The nine are now prepared and ready to be given at spirit s insistence The poet must consider the musings done for now He must move on to the next thing to whatever his Guide deems essential But what shall he call this ninth child Is it an ending or merely a stopover a brief respite from the work The poet knows not but he wishes to know He needs to comprehend this final step in this progression he has been subsumed by for the last two years Yet he receives no reply no answer no direction except the simplicity of a title Call it The Final Step he is told nothing more It will conclude what must be never concluded for want of a better vision But what does it say to me now that I must move on he queries It says nothing more than this Forgiveness is my quest Clarity my goal Peace to daily attend me Love to make me whole      Tracing the Jerusalem Code Eivor Andersen Oftestad,Joar rewriters gave the God of their religion the credit of being God creator but the world knows that only the God of Israel had angels with the name of Michael Gabriel and Ariel All others have been copycats and have tried to include the names of what they call their own angels and gods and beliefs into the book of Enoch
