Approaches to Geo-mathematical Modelling Alan G. Wilson,2016-08-26 Geo mathematical modelling models from complexity science Sir Alan Wilson Centre for Advanced Spatial Analysis University College London Mathematical and computer models for a complexity science tool kit Geographical systems are characterised by locations activities at locations interactions between them and the infrastructures that carry these activities and flows They can be described at a great variety of scales from individuals and organisations to countries Our understanding often partial of these entities and in many cases this understanding is represented in theories and associated mathematical models In this book the main examples are models that represent elements of the global system covering such topics as trade migration security and development aid together with examples at finer scales This provides an effective toolkit that can not only be applied to global systems but more widely in the modelling of complex systems All complex systems involve nonlinearities involving path dependence and the possibility of phase changes and this makes the mathematical aspects particularly interesting It is through these mechanisms that new structures can be seen to emerge and hence the current notion of emergent behaviour The range of models demonstrated include account based models and biproportional fitting structural dynamics space time statistical analysis real time response models Lotka Volterra models representing war agent based models epidemiology and reaction diffusion approaches game theory network models and finally integrated models Geo mathematical modelling Presents mathematical models with spatial dimensions Provides representations of path dependence and phase changes Illustrates complexity science using models of trade migration security and development aid Demonstrates how generic models from the complexity science tool kit can each be applied in a variety of situations This book is for practitioners and researchers in applied mathematics geography economics and interdisciplinary fields such as regional science and complexity science It can also be used as the basis of a modelling course for postgraduate students Pirates of the range B. Killers Graham A. Thomas, 2011-10-05 One hundred and fifty years ago the Royal Navy fought a daring campaign against ruthless pirates and won killing The King of the Pirates Bartholomew Roberts off the coast of Africa and capturing his fleet Scores of his men were executed by the Admiralty Court On the Barbary Coast of North Africa pirates preyed on shipping in the Mediterranean and the Atlantic as they had done for centuries and they terrorized the populations of the coastal towns To them piracy was a way of life and the great sea powers of the day couldnt stop them Then in one of the most remarkable and neglected anti piracy operations in maritime history the Royal Navy confronted them defeated them and made the seas safe for trade This is the subject of Graham A Thomass compelling new study of one of the most pernicious episodes in the history of African piracy As he tells this compelling story he uncovers the long tradition of piracy and privateering along the African shore Vividly he describes attacks not only in the Mediterranean but also on the other side of the continent along the shores of West Africa and around Madagascar But perhaps the most telling sections of his narrative concern critical engagements that stand out from the story the daring rescue of the British merchant ship The Three Sisters by HMS Polyphemus in 1848 and the actions of the battleship HMS Prometheus against the Rif pirates a few years later His account is based on documents held at the National Archives and other original sources It gives a fascinating inside view into the way in which the Royal Navy responded to the menace of piracy in the nineteenth century Routledge Handbook of
