The Politics of Sacred Places Nimrod Luz, 2023-09-07. The Politics of Sacred Places is a study of the socio-political dimensions of sacred sites in Israel/Palestine drawing on over 20 years of in-depth ethnographic research which introduces cutting-edge theories on secularization, struggles for recognition and diversity issues. This book focuses on contemporary sacred sites and their socio-political meanings for minorities within a hegemonic and a secularizing state system. It argues that sacred places provide a space that is less scrutinized by the state and where alternative visions of the socio-political may be produced. A plethora of sites and case studies are examined including the rural shrine of Maqam abu al-Hijja in the lower Galilee, the Mosque of Hassan Bek in the heart of Tel Aviv/Jaffa and the most disputed sacred place in the region, the Haram al-Sharif in Jerusalem. These sites are explored through mostly a phenomenological lens and in various contexts from the individual body to the global. This book offers a critical analytical study of the socio-political aspects of sacred sites in contemporary societies within the broader understanding of scale and the spatial turn in the study of religion.

Defining the Holy Sarah Hamilton, 2016-12-05. Holy sites, both public churches, monasteries, shrines and more private domestic chapels, oratories populated the landscape of medieval and early modern Europe, providing contemporaries with access to the divine. These sacred spaces thus defined religious experience and were fundamental to both the geography and social history of Europe over the course of 1,000 years. But how were these sacred spaces, both public and private, defined? How were they created, used, recognised and transformed? And to what extent did these definitions change over the course of time and in particular as a result of the changes wrought in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries? Taking a strongly interdisciplinary approach, this volume tackles these questions from the point of view of archaeology, architectural and art history, liturgy and history to consider the fundamental interaction between the sacred and the profane. Exploring the establishment of sacred space within both the public and domestic spheres as well as the role of the secular within the sacred sphere, each chapter provides fascinating insights into how these concepts helped shape and were shaped by wider society. By highlighting these issues on a European basis from the medieval period through the age of the reformation, these essays demonstrate the significance of continuity as much as change in definitions of sacred space and thus identify long-term trends which have hitherto been absent in more limited studies. As such, this volume provides essential reading for anyone with an interest in the ecclesiastical development of western Europe from the thirteenth to the eighteenth centuries.

God's Place in the World Seth Daniel Kunin, 1998. This book examines models of sacred space in Judaism from an anthropological perspective, discussing the development of these models in relation to historical and cultural transformation as well as the role of the state of Israel as a new center of secular and religious Jewish sacred space.

Sacred Space for the Missional Church William R. McAlpine, 2011-02-14. Sacred Space for the Missional

Church examines the strong link between the theology and mission of the Church and the spaces in which and from which that theology and mission are lived out. The author demonstrates that the built environment is not incidental or even subservient to mission. Rather, it is a key player in the fulfillment and the communication of that mission. The book begins with a working definition of the missional church, underscoring the connection between God's mission (missio Dei) and the Church's mission. The reader is presented with historical and theological frameworks for sacred space and reminded of the pivotal role of the built environment in the fulfillment of the mission of the Church. The design and construction of sacred spaces are shown to be fundamentally a theological exercise and not solely a matter of function, pragmatics, and fiscal astuteness. The author questions the uncritical application of blanket statements such as "form must follow function" and challenges the conviction that it does not matter where worship occurs, only that it occurs. The book addresses genuine concerns such as legitimizing the cost of church buildings and concludes with practical suggestions and essential questions that must be considered in posturing the built environment within the missional praxis of the Church.

The Dynamics of Pilgrimage Dee Dyas, 2020-10-08. This book offers a systematic chronological analysis of the role played by the human senses in experiencing pilgrimage and sacred places past and present. It thus addresses two major gaps in the existing literature by providing a broad historical narrative against which patterns of continuity and change can be more meaningfully discussed and focusing on the central but curiously neglected area of the core dynamics of pilgrim experience. Bringing together the still-developing fields of Pilgrimage Studies and Sensory Studies in a historically framed conversation, this interdisciplinary study traces the dynamics of pilgrimage and engagement with holy places from the beginnings of the Judeo-Christian tradition to the resurgence of interest evident in twenty-first-century England. Perspectives from a wide range of disciplines, from history to neuroscience, are used to examine themes including sacred sites in the Bible and Early Church, pilgrimage and holy places in early and later medieval England, the impact of the English Reformation, revival of pilgrimage and sacred places during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, and the emergence of
