

"McClure deals sagaciously with his attitude to the world and does not lose the wisdom of his position. . . . The worlds in which I dwell are, for me, the great world of personal experience, the biological world, the world of the atom and the molecule, the stars and the galaxies, are all there and in between, above and below, inside and out, the leading material, control out of 'me' by chance and necessity. If I were a poet I would write like Michael McClure - if only I had his talent!"
 Francis Crick, Nobel Laureate

"Michael McClure's poetry and prose is one of the finest remarkable achievements in recent American literature."
 The London Times Literary Supplement

Scratching The Beat Surface:

Scratching the beat surface Michael McClure, 1982      Scratching the Beat Surface Michael McClure, 1994-11-01 This insider's view of the Beat scene of the fifties and early sixties vividly marks the advancement of a new perception of art as a living bio alchemical organism through essays by a poet and playwright who helped shape the movement      Scratching the Beat Surface Michael McClure, 1982      The Columbia History of American Poetry Jay Parini, 1993-12-23 New York Times Book Review      William Blake and the Myth of America Linda Freedman, 2018-07-11 This volume tells the story of William Blake's literary reception in America and suggests that ideas about Blake's poetry and personality helped shape mythopoeic visions of America from the Abolitionists to the counterculture. It links high and low culture and covers poetry, music, theology, and the novel. American writers have turned to Blake to rediscover the symbolic meaning of their country in times of cataclysmic change, terror, and hope. Blake entered American society when slavery was rife and civil war threatened the fragile experiment of democracy. He found his moment in the mid-twentieth century counterculture as left-wing Americans took refuge in the arts at a time of increasingly reactionary conservatism, vicious racism, pervasive sexism, dangerous nuclear competition, and an increasingly unpopular war in Vietnam. The fires of Orc raging against the systems of Urizen. Blake's America as a symbol of cyclical hope and despair influenced many Americans who saw themselves as continuing the task of prophecy and vision. Blakean forms of bardic song, aphorism, prophecy, and lament became particularly relevant to a literary tradition which centralised the relationship between aspiration and experience. His interrogations of power and privilege, freedom and form resonated with Americans who repeatedly wrestled with the deep ironies of new world symbolism and sought to renew a Whitmanesque ideal of democracy through affection and openness towards alterity.

Ecopoetics Angela Hume, Gillian Osborne, 2018-03-15 Ecopoetics: Essays in the Field makes a formidable intervention into the emerging field of ecopoetics. The volume's essays model new and provocative methods for reading twentieth and twenty-first century ecological poetry and poetics, drawing on the insights of ecocriticism, contemporary philosophy, gender and sexuality studies, black studies, Native studies, critical race theory, and disability studies, among others. Contributors offer readings of a diverse range of poets, few of whom have previously been read as nature writers, from mid-century Beat poet Michael McClure, Objectivist poet George Oppen, and African American poets Melvin Tolson and Robert Hayden to contemporary writers such as Din poet Sherwin Bitsui, hybrid collage poets Claudia Rankine and Evelyn Reilly, emerging QPOC poet Xandria Phillips, and members of the Olimpias disability culture artists collective. While addressing preconceptions about the categories of nature writing and ecopoetics, contributors explore challenge and reimagine concepts that have been central to environmental discourse, from apocalypse and embodiment to toxicity and sustainability. This collection of essays makes the compelling argument that ecopoetics should be read as coextensive with post-1945 poetry and poetics rather than as a subgenre or movement within it. It is essential reading for any student or scholar working on contemporary literature or in the environmental humanities today Contributors Joshua Bennett Rob Halpern Matt Hooley Angela Hume Lynn Keller Petra Kuppers Michelle Niemann Gillian Osborne Samia Rahimtoola Joan Retallack Joshua Schuster Jonathan Skinner
