The Relationship between Human Security Discourse and International Law Shireen Daft, 2017-12-01 The concept of human security has emerged in international relations and policy as an idea which not only seeks to relocate the focus of international society on the individual but also challenges the current priorities of the international community In particular it places emphasis on promoting and facilitating a nexus between security development and human rights It is potentially a paradigm in the making gaining considerable momentum within the UN international relations scholarship and regional bodies And yet by and large it continues to be unexplored by the international legal community despite the success of a number of international treaties being attributed to the discourse This book seeks to address this gap and establish the nature of the relationship between human security discourse and international law determining whether human security can meaningfully contribute to the international legal framework To determine this the book analyses the core principles of human security discourse and examines the degree to which they find parallels in the existing normative structure of international law The book examines the how the broad narrow debate that dominates human security discourse has played out in international law making It goes on to consider the processes for the creation of so called human security treaties in order to determine a blueprint for future development of international human security treaty law In concluding Shireen Daft sets out a structured principled approach through which international legal scholarship can engage with human security highlighting the ways in which engagement between the two fields can be sustained
