technologies used by over twenty different kinds of craftsmen and artificers such as metal workers chariot makers weapon makers music instrument makers potters and master builders This edition besides providing the full text in English also provides a substantial introduction and other supporting explanatory material over one hundred illustrations of ancient Chinese artefacts and the original Chinese text itself A View from the West Vicki Cummings,2009-11-13 At the heart of this study are the early Neolithic chambered tombs of the Irish Sea zone defined as west Wales the west coast of northern Britain coastal south and western Scotland the western isles and the Isle of Man and the eastern coast of Ireland In order to understand these monuments there must be a broader consideration of their landscape settings The landscape setting of the chambered tombs is considered in detail both overall and through a number of specific case studies incorporating a much wider area than has been previously considered Cummings investigates the background against which the Neolithic began in the Irish Sea zone and what led to the adoption of Neolithic practices such as the construction of monuments Following on from this she considers what the chambered tombs and landscape can add to our understanding of the Mesolithic Neolithic transition This volume aims to incorporate landscape analysis into a broader understanding of the Neolithic sequence in this area and beyond It will provide an introduction to the Mesolithic and Neolithic of the Irish Sea zone as well as a summary of previous work on this subject It also offers a starting point for future research and a better understanding of this area

Slavs in the Making Florin Curta,2020-09-28 Slavs in the Making takes a fresh look at archaeological evidence from parts of Slavic speaking Europe north of the Lower Danube including the present day territories of the Czech Republic Slovakia Poland Belarus Ukraine and Russia Nothing is known about what the inhabitants of those remote lands called themselves during the sixth century or whether they spoke a Slavic language The book engages critically with the archaeological evidence from these regions and questions its association with the Slavs that has often been taken for granted It also deals with the linguistic evidence primarily names of rivers and other bodies of water that has been used to identify the primordial homeland of the Slavs and from which their migration towards the Lower Danube is believed to have started It is precisely in this area that sociolinguistics can offer a serious alternative to the language tree model currently favoured in linguistic paleontology The question of how best to explain the spread of Slavic remains a controversial issue This book attempts to provide an answer and not just a critique of the method of linguistic paleontology upon which the theory of the Slavic migration and homeland relies The book proposes a model of interpretation that builds upon the idea that Common Slavic cannot possibly be the result of Slavic migration It addresses the question of migration in the archaeology of early medieval Eastern Europe and makes a strong case for a more nuanced interpretation of the archaeological evidence of mobility It will appeal to scholars and students interested in medieval history migration and the history of Eastern and Central Europe

Eleanor Atkinson,1919 The Making of the Middle Sea Cyprian Broodbank,2024-10-17 The Mediterranean has been for millennia one of the global cockpits of human endeavour World class interpretations exist of its Classical and subsequent history but there has been remarkably little holistic exploration of how its societies culture and economies first came into being despite the fact that almost all the fundamental developments originated well before 500 BC Mediterranean archaeology is one of the worlds richest sources for the reconstruction of ancient societies yet this book is the first to draw in equal measure on ideas and information from the European western Asian and African flanks as well as the islands at the Mediterraneans heart to achieve a truly innovative focus on the varied trajectories and interactions that created this maritime world The Making of the Middle Sea is extensively illustrated and ranges across disciplines subject matter and chronology from early humans and the origins of farming and metallurgy to the rise of civilizations Egyptian Levantine Minoan Mycenaean Phoenician Etruscan early Greek and ultimately pan Mediterranean

Greece in the Making 1200-479 BC Robin Osborne,2009-03-16 Greece in the Making 1200 479 BC is an accessible and comprehensive account of Greek history from the end of the Bronze Age to the Classical Period The first edition of this book broke new ground by acknowledging that barring a small number of archaic poems and inscriptions the majority of our literary evidence for archaic Greece reported only what later writers wanted to tell and so was subject to systematic selection and distortion This book offers a narrative which acknowledges the later traditions as traditions but insists that we must primarily confront the contemporary evidence which is in large part archaeological and art historical and must make sense of it in its own terms In this second edition as well as updating the text to take account of recent scholarship and re ordering Robin Osborne has addressed more explicitly the weaknesses and unsustainable interpretations which the first edition chose merely to pass over He now spells out why this book features no rise of the polis and no colonization and why the treatment of Greek settlement abroad is necessarily spread over various chapters Students and teachers alike will particularly appreciate the enhanced discussion of economic history and the more systematic treatment of issues of gender and sexuality

 Schiffer,2008-03-12 The study of the human made world whether it is called artifacts material culture or technology has burgeoned across the academy Archaeologists have for centuries led the way and today offer investigators myriad programs and conceptual frameworks for engaging the things ordinary and extraordinary of everyday life This book is an attempt by practitioners of one program Behavioral Archaeology to furnish between two covers some of our basic principles heuristic tools and illustrative case studies Our greater purpose however is to engage the ideas of two competing programs agency practice and evolution in hopes of initiating a dialog We are convinced that there is enough overlap in goals interests and conceptions among these programs to warrant guarded optimism that a more encompassing more coherent framework for studying the material world can result from a concerted effort to forge a higher level synthesis However in engaging agency practice and evolution in Chap 2 we are not reticent to point out conflicts between Behavioral Archaeology and these programs This book will appeal to archaeologists and anthropologists as well as historians sociologists and philosophers of technology Those who study science technology society interactions may also encounter useful ideas Finally this book is suitable for upper division and graduate courses on anthropological theory archaeological theory and the study of technology
