Traditional methods of making archaeological data available are becoming increasingly inadequate Thanks to improved techniques for examining data from multiple viewpoints archaeologists are now in a position to record different kinds of data and to explore that data more fully than ever before The growing availability of computer networks and other technologies means that communication should become increasingly available to international archaeologists Will this result in the democratisation of archaeological knowledge on a global basis Contributors from Western and Eastern Europe the Far East Africa and the Americas seek to answer this and other questions about the way in which modern technology is revolutionising archaeological knowledge

Computer Fundamentals for an Information Age Gary B. Shelly, 1984 Reading, Writing, and Literacy 2.0 Denise Johnson, 2014

In today's high stakes testing environment integrating technology into the curriculum is often seen as something extra or for use with a few special projects With the growth in Internet use by even the youngest children educators urgently need a practical introduction to online literacy and reading comprehension Reading Writing and Literacy 2.0 offers that and more by providing tools and teaching strategies for incorporating online reading and writing into classroom learning as well as a host of web resources that teachers can draw on to make this happen All this without endless hours of searching Denise Johnson's book connects to the Common Core State Standards and is organized around the Technological Literacy Assessment of the National Assessment of Education Progress NAEP which focuses on three areas that characterize a technologically literate person knowledge capabilities and critical thinking and decision making This resource provides everything reading teachers need to begin using technology to deepen and enrich literacy learning for all students In addition the author maintains a companion blog to update and add helpful teaching links

Book Features An explanation of the concept and practices of literacy 2.0 and how it differs from literacy 1.0 Specific examples and resource links for using technology with diverse learners in the K-8 classroom including translation sites and multilingual materials Examples of teacher to student and student to student wiki and blog interactions Companion blog offers ongoing support including links to resources new teaching tools classroom examples and more There are many things that I love about this book It is written with a voice wise to both the opportunities and the challenges of classroom teaching It also contains a vast number of ideas that can be immediately used in your classroom Of course too it describes effective teaching of new literacies with so many new technologies In addition it begins by providing a clear and compelling framework to put all of the upcoming ideas into a package that will make perfect sense to any teacher From the Foreword by Donald J. Leu
