Gianluca Delfino,2012-11-01 Gianluca Delfino s study is based on the assumption that Wilson Harris works as a whole show a remarkable unity of thought rooted in their author s complex imagination As a valuable contribution to Caribbean Literature and Philosophy Harris imaginative approach to reality is discussed in relation to the categories of history and time with reference to several novels from Palace of The Peacock to The Mask of the Beggar with a special focus on The Infinite Rehearsal Jonestown and The Dark Jester spanning more than forty years of his vast literary production encompassing critical perspectives ranging from African philosophy to Jungian readings through historiography and anthropology As a result the cross cultural quality of Harris thought emerges as a healing outcome of the traumatic colonial encounter bringing together elements of Amerindian African and European origin in an ongoing dialogue with time nature and the psyche The outcome of an extensive research into Harris world Delfino s study stands in the tradition of the late Hena Maes Jelinek s critical enterprise by expanding philosophical and psychological readings with the addition of anthropological perspectives that appeal to those who were captured by Harris intricacy and rescued by Maes Jelinek s illuminating interpretations The attempt to reconstruct a unifying frame around Harris body of work suggests a new way of looking at one of the Caribbean s most controversial authors

Caliban's Voice Bill Ashcroft,2009-01-21 In Shakespeare's Tempest Caliban says to Miranda and Prospero you taught me language and my profit on t Is I know how to curse With this statement he gives voice to an issue that lies at the centre of post colonial studies Can Caliban own Prospero's language Can he use it to do more than curse Caliban's Voice examines the ways in which post colonial literatures have transformed English to redefine what we understand to be English Literature It investigates the importance of language learning in the imperial mission the function of language in ideas of race and place the link between language and identity the move from orature to literature and the significance of translation By demonstrating the dialogue that occurs between writers and readers in literature Bill Ashcroft argues that cultural identity is not locked up in language but that language even a dominant colonial language can be transformed to convey the realities of many different cultures Using the figure of Caliban Ashcroft weaves a consistent and resonant thread through his discussion of the post colonial experience of life in the English language and the power of its transformation into new and creative forms

Companion to Contemporary Black British Culture Alison Donnell,2002-09-11 The Companion to Contemporary Black British Culture is the first comprehensive reference book to provide multidisciplinary coverage of the field of black cultural production in Britain The publication is of particular value because despite attracting growing academic interest in recent years this field is still often subject to critical and institutional neglect For the purpose of the Companion the term black is used to signify African Caribbean and South Asian ethnicities while at the same time addressing the debates concerning notions of black Britishness and cultural identity This single volume Companion covers seven intersecting areas of black British cultural production since 1970 writing music visual and plastic arts performance works film and cinema fashion and design and intellectual life With entries on distinguished practitioners key intellectuals seminal organizations and concepts as well as popular cultural forms and local activities the Companion is packed with information and suggestions for further reading as well as offering a wide lens on the events and issues that have shaped the cultural interactions and productions of black Britain over the last thirty years With a range of specialist advisors and contributors this work promises to be an invaluable sourcebook for students researchers and academics interested in exploring the diverse complex and exciting field of black cultural forms in postcolonial Britain

Memory and Myth Fiona Darroch, 2009 This book investigates the problematical historical location of the term religion and examines how this location has affected the analytical reading of postcolonial fiction and poetry The adoption of the term religion outside of a Western Enlightenment and Christian context should therefore be treated with caution Within postcolonial literary criticism there has been either a silencing of the category as a result of this caution or an uncritical and essentializing adoption of the term religion It is argued in the present study that a vital aspect of how writers articulate their histories of colonial contact migration slavery and the re forging of identities in the wake of these histories is illuminated by the classificatory term religion Aspects of postcolonial theory and Religious Studies theory are combined to provide fresh insights into the literature thereby expanding the field of postcolonial literary criticism The way in which writers remember history through writing is central to the way in which religion is theorized and articulated the act of remembrance can be persuasively interpreted in terms of religion The title Memory and Myth therefore refers to both the syncretic mythology of Guyana and the key themes in a new critical understanding of religion Particular attention is devoted to Wilson Harris s novel Jonestown alongside theoretical and historical material on the actual Jonestown tragedy to the mesmerizing effect of the Anancy tales on contemporary writers particularly the poet John Agard and to the work of the Indo Guyanese writer David Dabydeen and his elusive character Manu
