The Birth of Whiteness Daniel Bernardi,1996 As indelible components of the history of the United States race and racism have permeated nearly all aspects of life cultural economic political and social In this first anthology on race in early cinema fourteen scholars examine the origins dynamics and ramifications of racism and Eurocentrism and the resistance to both during the early years of American motion pictures

Any discussion of racial themes and practices in any arena inevitably begins with the definition of race Is race an innate and biologically determined essence or is it a culturally constructed category Is the question irrelevant Perhaps race exists as an ever changing historical and social formation that regardless of any standard definition involves exploitation degradation and struggle In his introduction Daniel Bernardi writes that early cinema has been a clear partner in the hegemonic struggle over the meaning of race and that it was steadfastly aligned with a Eurocentric world view at the expense of those who didn't count as white The contributors to this work tackle these problems and address such subjects as biological determinism miscegenation Manifest Destiny assimilation and nativism and their impact on early cinema Analyses of The Birth of a Nation Romona Nanook of the North and Madame Butterfly and the directorial styles of D W Griffith Oscar Micheaux and Edwin Porter are included in the volume
