J.G. Ballard's Surrealist Imagination Jeannette Baxter, 2016-12-05 Making the case that J G Ballard's fictional and non fictional writings must be read within the framework of Surrealism Jeannette Baxter argues for a radical revisioning of Ballard that takes account of the political and ethical dimensions of his work Ballard's appropriation of diverse Surrealist aesthetic forms and political writings Baxter suggests are mobilised to contest official narratives of postwar history and culture and offer a series of counter historical and counter cultural critiques Thus Ballard's work must be understood as an exercise in Surrealist historiography that is politically and ethically engaged Placing Ballard's illustrated texts within this critical framework permits Baxter to explore the effects of photographs drawings and other visual symbols on the reading experience and the production of meaning Ballard's textual spectacles raise a variety of questions about the shifting role of the reader and the function of the written text within a predominantly visual culture while acknowledging the visual contexts of Ballard's Surrealist writings allows a very different historical picture of the author and his work to emerge

City Phil Hubbard, 2006-09-27 City provides an accessible yet critical introduction to one of the key concepts in human geography Always at the heart of discussions in social theory the definition and specification of the city nonetheless remains illusive In this volume Phil Hubbard locates the concept of the city within current traditions of social thought providing a basis for understanding its varying usages and meanings through a critical discussion of the contribution of key authors and thinkers Written in a lively and accessible style the individual chapters of City offer a thematic overview of four dominant ways of approaching cities as lived in places as imagined spaces as networks of association as technologies of flow Drawing on a diverse range of literatures and case studies the book spells out the importance of a geographical perspective on the city suggesting that it is only by bringing these different ways of mapping the city together that we can begin to make sense of cities

The Empire's of J. G. Ballard David

Ian Paddy, 2015-08-25 J G Ballard once declared that the most truly alien planet is Earth and in his science fiction he abandoned the traditional imagery of rocket ships traveling to distant galaxies to address the otherworldliness of this world. The Empires of J G Ballard is the first extensive study of Ballard's critical vision of nation and empire of the political geography of this planet. Paddy examines how Ballard's self-perceived status as an outsider and exile the Sheppertonian from Shanghai generated an outlook that celebrated worldliness and condemned parochialism. This book brings to light how Ballard wrestled with notions of national identity and speculated upon the social and psychological implications of the post-war transformation of older models of empire into new imperialisms of consumerism and globalization. Presenting analyses of Ballard's full body of work with its tales of reverse colonization, psychological imperialism, the savagery of civilization, estranged Englishmen abroad and at home, and multinational communities built on crime, The Empires of J G Ballard offers a fresh perspective on the fiction of J G Ballard. The Empires of J G Ballard: An Imagined Geography offers a sustained and highly convincing analysis of the imperial and post-imperial histories and networks that shape and energise Ballard's fictional and non-fictional writings. To what extent can Ballard be considered an international writer? What happens to our understanding of his post-war science fictions when they are opened up to the language and logics of post-colonialism? And what creative and critical roles do the spectres of empire play in Ballard's visions of modernity? Paddy follows these and other fascinating lines of enquiry in a study that is not only essential reading for Ballard students and scholars but for anyone interested in the intersections of modern and contemporary literature, history and politics.

Jeanette Baxter Anglia Ruskin University Shanghai made my father arriving in England after WW2 he was a person of the world who'd witnessed extremes of human experience and remained the outsider observing life from his home in Shepperton. 1930s Shanghai: Paris of the East was a mix of international sophistication and violence, unfettered capitalism and acute poverty. American cars, martinis and Coca-Cola, a place marked by death and war. It had a profound influence on my father and his imagination. Dr Paddy's fascinating book explores my father's fiction within an international context and offers a profound reading of a man who always kept his eyes and mind open to the world.

Wells and William Morris Emelyne Godfrey, 2016-12-08 This book is about the fiercely contrasting visions of two of the nineteenth century's greatest utopian writers. A wide-ranging interdisciplinary study, it emphasizes that space is a key factor in utopian fiction, often a barometer of mankind's successful
