Meshe, Heshe, Mison and Orbit Karen Deborah Farris, 2000-12 Person-Centered Arts Practices with Communities Dr. Felicia Low, 2018-12-12 Are you an artist who works with a variety of communities Are you interested to deepen and expand on the meaning of your work This book presents a pedagogical framework which aims to guide the practices of artists who work with communities It presents the social personal cognitive and cultural dimensions of a person centered approach in a dynamic interwoven manner which will enrich your practice through a thorough process of reflection evaluation and co creation In my journey as a dance therapist I have pondered the issue of professional boundaries where does the dance artist end and the dance therapist begin My inclination has veered towards a democratic perspective recognizing the great work community artists non therapist can achieve At the same time I have been aware that artists working with groups such as I people with dementia required something beyond arts skills in order to facilitate inclusive participatory and life enhancing activities Dr Low addresses this issue exactly She provides a coherent and impressive theoretical framework to underpin the work of the person centred arts facilitator and offers practical guidelines for setting up and running arts programs which are sensitive to context The aim of this book is a worthy one in its encouragement to develop arts activities which become in Dr Low s words an active means of growth for the participants From my experience I also know how enriching a person centred approach is for the arts facilitator which is why the following remark by Dr Low on the value of working in a person centred way resonates with me for this is a practice that will never stagnate never come to a closed conclusion because communities too never stagnate and come to closed conclusions Dr Heather Hill dance movement therapist for over 30 years now consultant in dance and person centered practice in dementia Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007 ,2008-02
