Rindfuss, Stephen J. Walsh, Vinod Mishra, 2007-05-08 People and the Environment Approaches for Linking Household and Community Surveys to Remote Sensing and GIS appeals to a wide range of natural social and spatial scientists with interests in conducting population and environment research and thereby characterizing a land use and land cover dynamics through remote sensing b demographic and socio economic variables through household and community surveys and c local site and situation through resource endowments geographical accessibility and connections of people to place through GIS Case studies are used to examine theories and practices useful in linking people and the environment We also describe land use and land cover dynamics and the associated social biophysical and geographical drivers of change articulated through human environment interactions The North Carolina Coastal Zone and Its Environment, 1977 New Perspectives on Environmental Justice Rachel Stein, 2004-06-25 Women make up the vast majority of activists and organizers of grassroots movements fighting against environmental ills that threaten poor and people of color communities New Perspectives on Environmental Justice is the first collection of essays that pays tribute to the enormous contributions women have made in these endeavors The writers offer varied examples of environmental justice issues such as children s environmental health campaigns cancer research AIDS HIV activism the Environmental Genome Project and popular culture among many others

This book will serve as a resource for researchers, research funders, and students.

Environmental Racism in the United States and Canada Bruce E. Johansen, 2020-04-14. From Flint, Michigan, to Standing Rock, North Dakota, minorities have found themselves losing the battle for clean resources and a healthy environment. This book provides a modern history of such environmental injustices in the United States and Canada. From the 19th-century extermination of the buffalo in the American West to Alaska's Project Chariot, a Cold War initiative that planned to use atomic bombs to blast out a harbor on Eskimo land, to the struggle for recovery and justice in Puerto Rico following Hurricane Maria in 2017, this book provides readers with an enhanced understanding of how poor and minority people are affected by natural and manmade environmental crises. Written for students as well as the general reader with an interest in social justice and environmental issues, this book traces the relationship between environmental discrimination, race, and class through a comprehensive case history of environmental injustices.

Environmental Racism in the United States and Canada: Seeking Justice and Sustainability includes 50 such case studies that range from local to national to international crises.
