Jürgen Erich Schmidt, 2011-03-30 The Handbook of Language Mapping aims to explore the core methodological and theoretical approaches of linguistic cartography In both empirical and theoretical linguistics the spatial variation of language is of increasing interest and the visualization of language in space is therefore also of growing significance It is the precondition for correct data interpretation But how does it work What has to be considered when drawing a map And how has the problem been tackled so far This book provides answers to such questions by taking a closer look at the theoretical issues surrounding cartography and at the concrete practice of mapping The fundamental issues raised are addressed particularly well since linguistic geography is not only one of the domains with a lengthy tradition it is also one of the most progressive fields in linguistics At the same time because of their visual primacy linguistic maps directly confront the challenges of human perception and aesthetics In this context envisioning the fruits of language mapping is a fascinating and inspiring endeavor not just for experts With its accessible texts and wealth of full color images the handbook not only represents a comprehensive manual serving the interests of a variety of readers it also fills a gap in the ongoing linguistic discourse

Parenting in Modern Societies ,2023-11-02 This book debates the high impact modern societies have on the way we raise children Although problems such as family dysfunction work family imbalance and migration due to war violence and poverty are not new their consequences for children's well being and mental health are aggravated by the lack of effective social support networks affecting many children and families living in contemporaneous urban areas The proverb It takes a village to raise a child is as valid now as it was in the early history of less complex communities However extended families and the social environment of villages have been substituted by a system of welfare and childcare institutions that in many cases fail to provide the appropriate care education and support the children need Job demanding competitive societies where career achievement and wealth become the definition of success force parents to the duality of choosing between family and career and depending on others to parent their children Likewise social inequality compels many parents to work in never ending shifts that add to the hours they spend commuting to their workplaces Sometimes parents are forced to migrate leaving their children behind Children learn to survive in the absence of their parents and to deal with small or inexistent parental emotional investment The parent child relationship and attachment necessities are impacted in ways that will affect children for the rest of their lives Alternatively migrant children accompanying their parents to a new host country may feel the shock of a normative society with cultural values different from the ones they left behind Parenting behaviour and style may then be considered inappropriate challenging parents ability to educate and pass their values to the offspring This book is an academic reflection on these controversies *How to See Norway. Derivational Networks Across Languages

Lívia Körtevélyessy, Alexandra Bagasheva, Pavol Štekauer, 2020-06-08 This pioneering research brings a new insight into derivational processes in terms of theory method and typology Theoretically it conceives of derivation as a three dimensional system Methodologically it introduces a range of parameters for the evaluation of derivational networks including the derivational role combinability and blocking effects of semantic categories the maximum derivational potential and its actualization in relation to simple underived words and the maximum and average number of orders of derivation Each language specific chapter has a unified structure which made it possible to identify in the final typologically oriented chapter the systematicity and regularity in developing derivational networks in a sample of forty European languages and in a few language genera and families This is supported by considerations about the role of word classes morphological types and the differences and similarities between word formation processes of the languages belonging to the same genus family
