

An abstract painting of a forest scene. The background is a dense collection of dark, vertical lines representing tree trunks. The foliage is depicted with vibrant, textured brushstrokes in shades of red, orange, yellow, green, and blue, creating a sense of depth and light filtering through the trees. The overall mood is contemplative and hopeful.

Psychoanalytic Memoirs Jeffrey Berman, 2022-11-17 The first book length study of the psychoanalytic memoir this book examines key examples of the genre including Sigmund Freud's mistitled An Autobiographical Study Helene Deutsch's Confrontations with Myself An Epilogue Wilfred Bion's War Memoirs 1917-1919 Masud Khan's The Long Wait Sophie Freud's Living in the Shadow of the Freud Family and Irvin D Yalom and Marilyn Yalom's A Matter of Death and Life Offering in each chapter a brief character sketch of the memoirist the book shows how personal writing fits into their other work often demonstrating the continuities and discontinuities in an author's life as well as discussing each author's contributions to psychoanalysis whether positive or negative

Dying Cory Taylor, 2016-05-16 Dying is bracing and beautiful possessed of an extraordinary intellectual and moral rigor Every human should read it New York Times One of President Barack Obama's top ten reads of 2017 Cory Taylor wrote this remarkable book in the space of a few weeks before her death from melanoma related cancer in July 2016 In a tremendous creative surge as her body weakened she described the experience of knowing she would soon die Her powerful and beautifully written book is a clear eyed account of the tangle of her feelings her reflections on her life her memories of the lives and deaths of her parents She tells us why it was important to her to have the ability to choose the circumstances of her death Dying A Memoir is a breathtaking book about vulnerability and strength courage and humility anger and acceptance It is a deeply affecting meditation on dying but it is also a funny and wise tribute to life Cory Taylor was born in Queensland in 1955 She was an award winning novelist and screenwriter who also published short fiction and children's books Her first novel Me and Mr Booker won the Commonwealth Writers Prize Pacific Region in 2012 and her second novel My Beautiful Enemy was shortlisted for the Miles Franklin Award in 2014 She died on 5 July 2016 a couple of months after Dying A Memoir was published The book rings louder in my imagination the more time I spend apart from it Taylor's prose is clear and direct with flashes of surpassing loveliness it has a startling offhand grace Taylor writes that she will most miss her husband and the faces of her children They will surely miss her too But it's at least something maybe a tiny bit lucky even that this gorgeous piece of her remains New York Times If a more open discussion of death is needed in the West Taylor's book is a manual for the task It is full of wisdom and vulnerability it is also profoundly reassuring Dying she repeatedly says is deeply lonely No one can do it with you But this book might be a companion made all the more solid by its lack of sentimentality and any other false comforts Times Literary Supplement A fine and sorrowful finale Sydney Morning Herald What is truly profound about this book is that though it ought to be harrowing it is astonishingly easy if not strangely uplifting to read In part this is because the narrative voice is so gentle and tightly controlled Every scene has a radiant quality it glows Conversation As this quietly remarkable book illustrates that kind of looking entails its own tribute to the sweetness of life Radio Australia Unflinchingly honest This deep meditation is beautifully written and destined to be an important piece of the conversation surrounding death Taylor's last testament to life is a welcome departing gift from a
