Cutter, 2006-05-18 Starting with Salman Rushdie's assertion that even though something is always lost in translation something can always be gained Martha Cutter examines the trope of translation in twenty English language novels and autobiographies by contemporary ethnic American writers She argues that these works advocate a politics of language diversity a literary and social agenda that validates the multiplicity of ethnic cultures and tongues in the United States Cutter studies works by Asian American Native American African American and Mexican American authors She argues that translation between cultures languages and dialects creates a new language that in its diversity constitutes the true heritage of the United States Through the metaphor of translation Cutter demonstrates writers such as Maxine Hong Kingston Sherman Alexie Toni Morrison and Richard Rodriguez establish a place within American society for the many languages spoken by multiethnic and multicultural individuals Cutter concludes with an analysis of contemporary debates over language policy such as English only legislation the recognition of Ebonics and the growing acceptance of bilingualism The focus on translation by so many multiethnic writers she contends offers hope in our postmodern culture for a new condition in which creatively fused languages renovate the communications of the dominant society and create new kinds of identity for multicultural individuals The American Novel 1870-1940 Priscilla Wald, Michael A. in popular imagination But what are we buying into when we read these stories as texts in English language translations Cristina Bacchilega poses this question in her examination of the way these stories have been adapted to produce a legendary Hawai i primarily for non Hawaiian readers or other audiences With an understanding of tradition that foregrounds history and change Bacchilega examines how following the 1898 annexation of Hawai i by the United States the publication of Hawaiian legends in English delegitimized indigenous narratives and traditions and at the same time constructed them as representative of Hawaiian culture Hawaiian mo olelo were translated in popular and scholarly English language publications to market a new cultural product a space constructed primarily for Euro Americans as something simultaneously exotic and primitive and beautiful and welcoming To analyze this representation of Hawaiian traditions place and genre Bacchilega focuses on translation across languages cultures and media on photography as the technology that contributed to the visual formation of a westernized image of Hawai i and on tourism as determining postannexation economic and ideological machinery In a book with interdisciplinary appeal Bacchilega demonstrates both how the myth of legendary Hawai i emerged and how this vision can be unmade and reimagined Predicting the Past Michael Boyden,2009 Drawing from the social theories of Niklas Luhmann and Mary Douglas Predicting the Past advocates a reflexive understanding of the paradoxical institutional dynamic of American literary history as a professional discipline and field of study Contrary to most disciplinary accounts Michael Boyden resists the utopian impulse to offer supposedly definitive solutions for the legitimation crises besetting American literature studies by going beyond its inherited racist classist and sexist underpinnings Approaching the existence of the American literary tradition as a typically modern problem generating diverse but functionally equivalent solutions Boyden argues how its peculiarity does not as is often supposed reside in its restrictive exclusivity but rather in its massive inclusivity which drives it to constantly revert to a self negating beyond perspective Predicting the Past covers a broad range of literary histories and reference works from Rufus Griswold s 1847 Prose Writers of America to Sacvan Bercovitch s monumental Cambridge History of American Literature Throughout Boyden focuses on particular themes and topics illustrating the self induced complexity of American literary history such as the early Anglocentric roots theories of American literature the debate on contemporary authors in the age of naturalism the plurilingual ethnocentrism of the pioneer Americanists of the mid twentieth century and the genealogical misrepresentation of founding figures such as Jonathan Edwards Emily Dickinson and Robert Lowell Pole Raising and Speech Making Jennifer Eastman Attebery,2015-11-01 In Pole Raising and Speech Making author Jennifer Eastman Attebery focuses on the beginnings of the traditional Scandinavian Midsummer celebration and the surrounding spring to summer seasonal festivities in the Rocky Mountain West during the height of Swedish immigration to the area 1880 1917 Combining research in folkloristics and history Attebery explores various ways that immigrants blended traditional Swedish Midsummer related celebrations with local civic celebrations of American Independence Day on July 4 and the Mormons Pioneer Day on July 24

Functioning as multimodal observances with multiple meanings these holidays represent and reconsider ethnicity and panethnicity sacred and secular relationships and the rural and the urban demonstrating how flexible and complex traditional celebrations can be Providing a wealth of detail and information surrounding little studied celebrations and valuable archival and published primary sources diaries letters speeches newspaper reports and images Pole Raising and Speech Making is proof that non English immigrant culture must be included when discussing American culture It will be of interest to scholars and graduate students in ethnic studies folklore ritual and festival studies and Scandinavian American cultural history
