Pam Hobbs Britain:

The Biopolitics of Care in Second World War Britain Kimberly Mair, 2022-01-13 During the crisis of the Second World War in Britain official Air Raid Precautions made the management of daily life a moral obligation of civil defence by introducing new prescriptions for the care of homes animals and persons displaced through evacuation This book examines how the Mass Observation movement recorded and shaped the logics of care that became central to those daily routines in homes and neighbourhoods Kimberly Mair looks at how government publicity campaigns communicated new instructions for care formally while the circulation of wartime rumours negotiated these instructions informally These rumours she argues explicitly repudiated the improper socialization of evacuees and also produced a salient but contested image of the host as a good wartime citizen who was impervious to the cultural invasion of the ostensibly animalistic dirty and destructive house guest Mair also considers the explicit contestations over the value of the lives of pets conceived as animals who do not work with animal caregivers whose use of limited provisions or personal sacrifice could then be judged in the context of wartime hardship Together formal and informal instructions for caregiving reshaped everyday habits in the war years to an idealized template of the good citizen committed to the war and nation with Mass Observation enacting a watchful form of care by surveilling civilian feeling and habit in the process

Forgotten Voices of the British Empire Carol Ann Boshier, 2022-02-16 This study investigates the contribution made by outsiders in accumulating knowledge from the days of the East India Company until the early twentieth century when photography became an important tool for recording information It focuses on heterogeneous voices on the periphery who interacted with the indigenous population to produce knowledge in original or unexpected ways that extended beyond the limits prescribed by the term colonial Largely unrecognized today their endeavors to satisfy their own intellectual curiosity or improve their material circumstances produced a perspective on colonial life that stripped away conventions where their ordinary everyday experiences sometimes became extraordinary as they forged new networks throughout the subcontinent and beyond its frontiers Their journeys and experiences offer a discursive historical construct as significant as official reports censuses and surveys and contribute towards our understanding of the diverse creative processes through which intellectual histories of the colonial state were constructed

Britain's Wartime Evacuees Gillian Mawson, 2016-11-30 With the declaration of war in September 1939 the Government Evacuation Scheme was implemented in which almost one and a half million civilians mostly children were evacuated from the British cities thought most likely to be the targets of aerial bombing The fear of invasion the following year resulted in another mass evacuation from the coastal towns Hundreds of thousands of school children and mothers with babies and infants were removed from their homes and families and sent to live with strangers in distant rural areas and to entirely unfamiliar environments Some children were also sent to countries of the Commonwealth such as Canada and Australia The evacuations had an enormous impact upon millions of individuals both those that were evacuated and those that had to accommodate and care for the displaced multitude Over the course of eight years research Gillian Mawson has interviewed hundreds of evacuees from England Northern Ireland Scotland and Wales Families have also allowed her access to the testimony of those who have passed away Coupled with the extensive newspaper coverage of the day and official documents Britains Wartime Evacuees provides not just a comprehensive study of the evacuations but also relates some of the most moving and emotive stories of the Second World War Canadian Book

Women and Evacuation in the Second World War Maggie Andrews,2019-08-08 Groups of young evacuees standing on railway stations with gas masks and cardboard suitcases have become an iconic image of wartime Britain but their histories have eclipsed those of women whose domestic lives were affected This book explores the effects of this unparalleled interference in the domestic lives of women looking at the impact on everyday experience and on ideas of femininity domesticity and motherhood Maggie Andrews argues that wartime evacuation is important for understanding the experience and the contested meanings of domesticity and motherhood in the 20th century As this book shows evacuation represents a significant and unrecognised area of women s war work and precipitated the rise of competing public discourses about domestic labour and motherhood Edinburgh History of the British and Irish Press, Volume 2 David

Royal Wills in Britain from 1509 to 2008 Michael L. Nash,2017-02-09 This is the first book on Royal Wills since 1780 and aims to take over where the previous ones in 1775 and 1780 left off Therefore the period 1509 to 2008 is covered It aims to uncover the many dilemmas and conundrums they have had to deal with against a backdrop of Imperial splendor and political strife society scandals and in later instances a disintegrating infrastructure This period covers the wills of Henry VIII Edward VI and George I which all sought to divert the accepted rules of succession the wills of Queen Charlotte and George III which brought into sharp focus the differences between State and Personal property and the wills from Prince Albert to the present day with a few exceptions which sought to exclude the public from seeing their contents in devices known as closing and sealing up the wills The authority by which the latter was done has been seriously questioned in signal cases in 2007 and 2008 Sources drawn upon include not only the Royal Archives but the Kilmorey Papers in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland and the Teck Letters in Wellington College where Prince Frank received much of his early education The sealed will of Prince Frank of Teck the brother of Queen Mary and great uncle of the present Queen is the seminal chapter in this study
