Panoply of Ghana A. A. Y. Kyerematen, 1964      Panoply of Ghana Alex Atta Yaw Kyerematen, 1963      Way of the Earth T.c. McLuhan, 1995-07 This book draws upon both ancient and contemporary sources to examine the significance of the earth from the perspective of six different cultures and how these spiritual traditions have valued perceived and understood the earth At first glance the peoples of aboriginal Australia Japan Greece Africa South America and Native North America couldn't be more different But by taking a closer look the author shows that there are many more similarities than differences all revere mountains as a source of inspiration and holiness all feel a spiritual connection to the soil itself all create art and literature to celebrate their connection to the land and all see themselves as inextricable from the land they call home This unique volume explores how human beings across the planet and across time have felt about the earth and nature and how they have understood it related to it and celebrated it in their literature mythology religion and art It demonstrates that no matter where on the planet we exist and no matter what time period we live we all have a profound connection to the earth from Book Jacket

Northern Ghanaian Women's Artistry Brittany Sheldon, 2023-12-06 Many existing studies present women's artistry as a consistent and enduring element of Indigenous culture emphasizing overarching systems of artistic practices aesthetic goals and symbolic repertoires Brittany Sheldon complicates this image within Northern Ghanaian Women's Artistry Visualizing Culture by emphasizing variations in individual training knowledge experience techniques skills and ideas that inevitably exist among artists and within their communities This book traces women's wall painting known as bamb lse in northern Ghana Based on extensive observations and numerous interviews Sheldon digs into women artists' experiences and knowledge and describes their technical processes This book delves into the history of bamb lse how this tradition has changed over time and how it is tied to understandings of gender social hierarchy cultural identity and memory Rather than portraying the tradition as static Sheldon demonstrates how women adapt their artistry to changing circumstances including shifting preferences incentives markets and audiences With its vivid descriptions and detailed discussions this book brings women artists and their wall paintings to life for readers and as such it is relevant to scholars and students of African art history anthropology and gender studies scholarly analysis of the close relationships among the structure function and history of the sub-Saharan African arts The Krobo People of Ghana to 1892 Louis Edward Wilson, 1991 This book presents a broad analytical framework for the history of southeastern Ghana within the context of a representative study of one of the country's most important political and economic forces The 150 000 Krobo are the most numerous of the Adangme speaking peoples They are located in the mountains just inland from the coast and are the fourth largest ethnic group in the country During the nineteenth century they were one of the small states of the Gold Coast in the formative stages of political and cultural development After the middle of the nineteenth century they became economically and politically one of the most important groups in the country because of their dominant role in commercial production of export crops Historical research on Ghana has produced mostly case studies of the large centralized Akan states Wilson's study is an account of one of the smaller societies without which a history of Ghana would be incomplete

Asante in the Nineteenth Century Ivor Wilks, 1989-09-29 Originally published in 1975 and reprinted with additional introductory material in 1989 this book provides an in depth account of Asante history during the nineteenth century The focus of the book is on the broad political development of Asante society concentrating on the material factors which affected the decision making process during various administrations This focus reflects the complex and sophisticated nature of the Asante social system a system which had its basis in administrative unity and a core idea of nationhood The text utilizes the abundant archival printed and oral source materials available regarding the Asante offering the reader a profound insight into the nature and structure of a remarkable society This is a fascinating book that will be of value to anyone with an interest in African history

Africa in Contemporary Perspective Manuh, Takyiwaa, Sutherland-Addy, Esi, 2014-05-08 An important feature of Ghanaian tertiary education is the foundational African Studies Programme which was initiated in the early 1960s Unfortunately hardly any readers exist which bring together a body of knowledge on the themes issues and debates which inform and animate research and teaching in African Studies particularly on the African continent This becomes even more important when we consider the need for knowledge on Africa that is not Eurocentric or sensationalised but driven from internal understandings of life and prospects in Africa Dominant representations and perceptions of Africa usually depict a continent in crisis Rather than buying into external representations of Africa with its lacks and aspirations for Western modernities we insist that African scholars in particular should be in the forefront of promoting understanding of the pluri lingual overlapping and dense reality of life and developments on the continent to produce relevant and usable knowledge Continuing and renewed interest in Africa's resources including the land mass economy minerals visual arts and performance cultures as well as bio medical knowledge and products by old and new geopolitical players obliges African scholars to transcend disciplinary boundaries and to work with each other to advance knowledge and uses of those resources in the interests of Africa's people
