Papers On The Archaeology Of Black Mesa Arizona:

Papers on the Archaeology of Black Mesa, Arizona George J. Gumerman, Robert C. Euler, 1976 The Navajo History and Archaeology of East Central Black Mesa, Arizona Scott C. Russell, 1984 Dynamics of Southwest Prehistory Linda S. Cordell, George J. Gumerman, 2006-05-28 Emerging from a School of American Research this work reviews the general status of archaeological knowledge in 9 key regions of the Southwest to examine broader questions of cultural development which affected the Southwest as a whole and to consider an overall conceptual model of the prehistoric Southwest after the advent of sedentism The Anasazi in a Changing Environment George J. Gumerman, 1988-10-27 An outline of a 1000 year chronicle of environmental and cultural history which attempts to explain broad patterns of interaction between humans and their environment It uses North American geological and botanical remains and looks at the behaviour of the Anasazi prehistoric Pueblo Indians Bioarchaeology of the Southwest Ann L. W. Stodder, Dawn M. Mulhern, 2025-08-05 A wide ranging synthesis of research illuminating the lives of ancient people who lived in the deserts mountains and river valleys of the North American Southwest The two volumes of Bioarchaeology of the Southwest bring together more than 100 years of research into the lives of the ancient people of the Southwest United States and Northwest Mexico Featuring contributions from specialists working in academic museum and cultural resource management settings these books make available knowledge from a variety of unpublished sources that have been difficult to access until now Chapters in volume 2 include northern and southern Arizona southwest New Mexico and northern Mexico The contributors summarize findings about people of the Sinagua Kayenta Mimbres Hohokam and Trincheras traditions and the Casas Grandes region Four topically focused chapters discuss evidence of cancer in the Southwest biological distance in Colonial era populations stable isotope studies and archaeoparasitology The concluding chapter reviews the strengths and challenges in the field and some avenues for progress With chapters representing hundreds of ancient communities dating from the Archaic to the early Historic period Bioarchaeology of the Southwest demonstrates the range of topics that can be addressed through the contextualized study of human remains the insights this field offers into the everyday experiences of people in the past and the challenges and promise of collaborative approaches to this research Together these volumes constitute an unparalleled resource for understanding the history of bioarchaeology and critical issues impacting the future of the discipline in the region General Technical Report RM., 1993 Bioarchaeology of Marginalized People Madeleine L. Mant, Alyson Jaagumägi Holland, 2019-02-27 Bioarchaeology of Marginalized People amplifies the voices of marginalized or powerless individuals Following previous work done by physical anthropologists on the biology of poverty this volume focuses on the voices of past actors who would normally be subsumed within a cohort or whose stories represent those of the minority The physical effects of marginalization manifest as skeletal markers of stress and disease are read in their historical contexts to better understand vulnerability and the social determinants of health in the past Bioarchaeological archaeological and historical datasets are integrated to explore the varied ways in which individuals may be marginalized both during and after their lifespan. By focusing on previously excluded voices, this volume enriches our understanding of the lived experience of individuals in the past. This volume queries the diverse meanings of marginalization from physical or social peripheralization to identity loss within a majority population to a collective forgetting that excludes specific groups. Contributors to the volume highlight the histories of individuals who did not record their own stories, including two disparate Ancient Egyptian women and individuals from a high status Indigenous cemetery in British Columbia. Additional chapters examine the marginalized individuals whose bodies comprise the Robert J. Terry anatomical collection and investigate inequalities in health status in individuals from Canada, the United States, and the United Kingdom. Modern clinical population health research is examined through a historical lens, bringing a new perspective to the critical public health interventions occurring today. Together, these papers highlight the role that biological anthropologists play both in contributing to and challenging the marginalization of past populations. Highlights the histories and stories of individuals whose voices were silenced, such as workhouse inmates, migrants, those of low socioeconomic status, the chronically ill, and those living in communities without a written language. Provides a holistic and more complete understanding of the lived experiences of the past, as well as changes in populations through time. Offers an interdisciplinary discussion with contributions from a wide variety of international authors.

Perspectives On Southwestern Prehistory Paul Minnis, Charles L. Redman, 2019-05-28

Recent archaeological work in the American Southwest and Northern Mexico has fueled a great deal of regionally specific research. Archaeologists faced with an avalanche of new and unassimilated data tend to focus on their own areas, to the exclusion of the broader panregional view. Perspectives on Southwestern Prehistory advocates the larger f Fieldiana, 1993

Ancestral Hopi Migrations Patrick D. Lyons, 2016-10-15

Southwestern archaeologists have long speculated about the scale and impact of ancient population movements. In Ancestral Hopi Migrations, Patrick Lyons infers the movement of large numbers of people from the Kayenta and Tusayan regions of northern Arizona to every major river valley in Arizona, parts of New Mexico, and northern Mexico. Building upon earlier studies, Lyons uses chemical sourcing of ceramics and analyses of painted pottery designs to distinguish among traces of exchange, emulation, and migration. He demonstrates strong similarities among the pottery traditions of the Kayenta region, the Hopi Mesas, and the Homolovi villages near Winslow, Arizona. Architectural evidence marshaled by Lyons corroborates his conclusion that the inhabitants of Homolovi were immigrants from the north. Placing the Homolovi case study in a larger context, Lyons synthesizes evidence of northern immigrants recovered from sites dating between A.D. 1250 and 1450. His data support Patricia Crown's contention that the movement of these groups is linked to the origin of the Salado polychromes and further indicate that these immigrants and their descendants were responsible for the production of Roosevelt Red Ware throughout much of the Greater Southwest Offering an innovative juxtaposition of anthropological data bearing on Hopi migrations and oral accounts of the tribe s origin and history Lyons highlights the many points of agreement between these two bodies of knowledge Lyons argues that appreciating the scale of population movement that characterized the late prehistoric period is prerequisite to understanding regional phenomena such as Salado and to illuminating the connections between tribal peoples of the Southwest and their ancestors

Geological Survey Circular Geological Survey (U.S.),1978 The Oxford Handbook of Southwest Archaeology Barbara J. Mills,Severin M. Fowles,2017 This volume takes stock of the empirical evidence theoretical orientations and historical reconstructions of archaeology of the American Southwest Themed chapters on method and theory are accompanied by comprehensive overviews of all major cultural traditions in the region from the Paleoindians to Chaco Canyon to the onset of Euro American imperialism

Spider Woman Walks This Land Kelli Carmean,2002-07-02 Spider Woman Walks This Land is a lively and accessible introduction to issues of traditional cultural properties and cultural resource management among native peoples in the United States Describing her work with the Navajo Nation Carmean shows how specific geographical locations contain significant cultural and religious meaning to the Navajo people With historical and contemporary examples Carmean demonstrates that cultural value of the sacred geography can be in direct opposition to the need to modernize including building roads power lines housing and a variety of natural resource extraction activities that can earn much needed money for the tribe She evaluates the dilemma of sustainability common to many traditional societies as well as to the Navajo Nation as they undergo the tremendous cultural changes that accompany industrialization and seek a balance between continuity and change Spider Woman Walks this Land is a useful introduction for undergraduates and an interested general public
