Planning And Management In The African Power Sector:

Planning and Management in the African Power Sector, 1998 Planning and Management in the African Power Sector Lucy Redeby, African Energy Policy Research Network, 1998 This study explores the problems of the power sector in Africa including the tendency to ignore the electricity needs of the population at large Planning and Management in the African Power Sector Lucy Redeby, 1998 The generation of electricity while by no means the only energy sector to be taken into account in African countries is crucial to the modern economy generally and to the future growth of manufacturing in particular This study explores the problems of the power sector in Africa including the tendency to ignore the electricity needs of the population at large It stresses that power sector reforms are dependent on political stability strong macro economic demand and foreign aid not distorting policy Capacity Building for a Reforming African Power Sector J. Baguant, 2002 Capacity building for the power sector is an important national responsibility which Governments in Africa need to seriously address The inability of Governments to mobilize the required level of investment and commitment to the development and retention of a wide array of skills needed by the power sector is in part responsible for many of the difficulties that are faced by the region s electricity industry Under the aegis of the AFREPREN Capacity Building Theme Group a regional study and four country studies Zimbabwe Mauritius Ethiopia and South Africa addressed the capacity building question in the African power sector This volume presents the findings of the studies The studies analyse issues of manpower recruitment training and retention in national power utilities They also highlight the challenges and implications of capacity building initiatives in a reforming electricity industry and propose innovative options for capacity building in the region s power sector Climate Change and Africa Pak Sum Low, 2006-11-02 At the beginning of the twenty first century no environmental issue is of such truly global magnitude as the issue of climate change The poorer developing countries are the least equipped to adapt to the potential effects of climate change although most of them have played an insignificant role in causing it African countries are amongst the poorest of the developing countries This book presents the issues of most relevance to Africa such as past and present climate desertification biomass burning and its implications for atmospheric chemistry and climate energy generation sea level rise ENSO induced drought and flood adaptation disaster risk reduction the UNFCCC and Kyoto Protocol especially the Clean Development Mechanism capacity building and sustainable development It provides a comprehensive and up to date review of these and many other issues with chapters by the leading experts from a range of disciplines Climate Change and Africa will prove to be an invaluable reference for all researchers and policy makers with an interest in climate change and Africa Energy Services for the Urban Poor in Africa Bereket Kebede, Ikhupuleng Dube, 2013-07-18 Africa has been experiencing higher rates of urbanization than any other continent and today about one third of the continent s population live in urban areas But studies of energy services for urban residents especially the poor are still rare The supply of electricity to poor city dwellers has not kept pace with urbanisation in 1970

some 40 million had no access to electricity by the year 2000 there were over 100 million The urban poor continue to rely on wood fuel charcoal kerosene and dung cakes for energy with all their environmental drawbacks This book examines the affordability of modern energy sources for the poor the relevance of energy subsidies the impact of subsidies on public finances and how electricity tariffs affect the operations of small and medium enterprises the main source of livelihood for the majority of the urban poor outside the formal economic sector

Renewables and Energy for Rural Development in Sub-Saharan Africa Maxwell Mapako, Abel Mbewe, 2013-07-18 Energy supply is a key factor in economic and social development but lack of modern energy in rural areas limits efforts to alleviate poverty and improve living standards This book identifies the options for providing modern and improved renewables based energy to low income rural areas with special emphasis on the productive uses In the five countries represented Botswana Eritrea Ethiopia Zambia and Zimbabwe the contributors focus on the advantages of a decentralized approach to energy delivery the role of income generating activities in attracting modern energy services to rural areas and the barriers as well as opportunities that exist in the promotion of renewable energy technologies The African Energy Policy Research Network Afrepren has built up an enviable reputation as the Continent's foremost platform for the development African energy professionals producing policy relevant work This latest volume in their series of publications is a further contribution to addressing the practical energy needs of Sub Saharan Africa

Africa's Power Infrastructure Orvika Rosnes, Maria Shkaratan, 2011 Africa's Power Infrastructure Investment Integration Efficiency is based on the most extensive data collection exercise ever undertaken on infrastructure in Africa the Africa Country Infrastructure Country Diagnostic AICD Data from this study have provided new insights on the extent of a power crisis in the region characterized by insufficient capacity low electricity connection rates high costs and poor reliability and on what can be done about it The continent faces an annual power sector financing gap of about 21 billion with much of the existing spending channeled to maintain and operate high cost power systems leaving little for the huge investments needed to provide a long term solution Meanwhile the power crisis is taking a heavy toll on economic growth and productivity This book asserts that the current impediments to economic growth and development need to be tackled through policies and investment strategies that renew efforts to reform state owned utilities build on the lessons of private participation in infrastructure projects retarget electrification strategies expand regional power trade and mobilize new funding resources Further development of regional power trade would allow Africa to harness larger scale and more cost effective energy sources reducing energy system costs by US 2 billion and carbon dioxide emissions by 70 million tons annually But reaping the promise of regional trade depends on a handful of major exporting countries raising the large volumes of finance needed to develop generation capacity for export it also requires a large number of importing countries to muster the requisite political will With increased utility efficiency and regional power trade in play power costs would fall and full cost recovery tariffs could become affordable in much of Africa This will make utilities more creditworthy and help sustain the flow of external finance to the sector which is essential to close the huge financing gap

Power Sector Reform in SubSaharan Africa J. Turkson, 2000-03-02 As part of the wave of liberalisation sweeping most parts of the world power sectors around the globe are coming under intense scrutiny with some being restructured This book presents six country case studies to examine the process and implementation experiences of power sector reform in Subsaharan Africa

Energy Economics, Finance, and Management in Developing and Emerging Economies Hooi Hooi Lean, Jin Hooi Chan, 2025-09-15 Energy Economics Finance and Management in Developing and Emerging Economies provides a comprehensive exploration of how developing nations can navigate the challenges of energy transition while managing scarce resources With a focus on practical strategies the book delves into economic frameworks financing mechanisms and management practices tailored for emerging economies By addressing the interplay between global energy dynamics and local constraints it equips policymakers researchers and industry professionals with actionable insights to foster sustainable development and economic resilience The book also emphasizes the critical role of innovation community engagement and international collaboration highlighting case studies best practices and adaptable solutions designed for diverse socio economic contexts Provides fresh and essential insights into the needs of developing and emerging economies in the energy transition Breaks down opportunities regulatory tactics and financial incentives for renewable and sustainable energy sources Includes a wide range of case studies from experts across the globe

Reforming the Power Sector in Africa M. R. Bhagavan, 1999 Today the public sector in Africa like in much of the rest of the world is perceived as having led to inefficiency waste indifference and corruption in the provision of public services generally The power supply sector is now experiencing a process of restructuring and reform including privatization The contributors to this volume who are themselves involved in the policy process in their own countries examine how far this movement towards restructuring and reform has proceeded in Malawi Tanzania Uganda and Zimbabwe Based on empirical research the authors have generated policy options and scenarios that are bound to be of vital interest to policy makers and implementers throughout Sub Saharan Africa Among the key topics dealt with are the determinants of performance and efficiency vertical and horizontal unbundling of power generation distribution and sales the role of independent power producers the benefits and risks attendant on reform and privatization and the legal and regulatory framework on which everything else depends

Petroleum Marketing in Africa M. R. Bhagavan, 1999 The Nineties saw a fundamental shift in the policy and practice governing the pricing and marketing of petroleum products in Sub Saharan Africa Strict government control was replaced by liberalisation Oil multinationals have been permitted once more to pursue their own strategies in importing and retailing petroleum products This has profound consequences for access and affordability by both urban and rural users for subsidies to ease the price burden on low income groups for tax revenues for opportunities for price fixing and oligopoly by multinationals and most importantly for generating investment for expanding the retail network beyond the metropolitan areas In this volume these issues are examined in depth in the context of two very different cases Kenya where full liberalisation has been achieved and Ethiopia where the transition from state control to liberalisation has only just begun A comparative analysis of these two cases yields valuable insights into policies and strategies that African countries need to deploy for ensuring lasting benefits from the imperative of liberalisation

United Republic of Tanzania International Monetary Fund. African Dept.,2024-06-25 Context and outlook Economic growth is recovering from the impact of the unfavorable global economic environment and domestic factors Growth is expected to continue strengthening supported by improvements in the business environment and subsiding global commodity prices Inflation is projected to remain within the central bank s target range Growth friendly fiscal consolidation is underway anchored by the ECF arrangement and the current account deficit is narrowing reflecting fiscal consolidation easing commodity prices and tight external financing conditions The medium term outlook is positive contingent on implementation of the authorities reform agenda anchored by the ECF arrangement Climate change poses a major threat as Tanzania is highly vulnerable but not well prepared to address the effects of climate change

Independent Power Projects in Sub-Saharan Africa Anton Eberhard,Katharine Gratwick,Elvira Morella,Pedro Antmann,2016-04-18 Inadequate electricity services pose a major impediment to reducing extreme poverty and boosting shared prosperity in Sub Saharan Africa Simply put Africa does not have enough power Despite the abundant low carbon and low cost energy resources available to Sub Saharan Africa the region s entire installed electricity capacity at a little over 80 GW is equivalent to that of the Republic of Korea Looking ahead Sub Saharan Africa will need to ramp up its power generation capacity substantially The investment needed to meet this goal largely exceeds African countries already stretched public finances Increasing private investment is critical to help expand and improve electricity supply Historically most private sector finance has been channeled through privately financed independent power projects IPP supported by nonrecourse or limited recourse loans with long term power purchase agreements with the state utility or another off taker Between 1990 and 2014 IPPs have spread across Sub Saharan Africa and are now present in 17 countries Currently there are 125 IPPs with an overall installed capacity of 10 7 GW and investments of 24 6 billion However private investment could be much greater and less concentrated South Africa alone accounts for 67 IPPs 4 3 GW of capacity and 14 4 billion of investments the remaining projects are concentrated in a handful of countries The objective of this study is to evaluate the experience of IPPs and identify lessons that can help African countries attract more and better private investment At the core of this analysis is a reflection on whether IPPs have in fact benefited Sub Saharan Africa and how they might be improved The analysis is based primarily on in depth case studies carried out in five countries including Kenya Nigeria South Africa Tanzania and Uganda which not only have the most numerous but also among the most extensive experience with IPPs

West African Studies Africa's Urbanisation Dynamics 2022 The Economic Power of Africa's Cities OECD, United Nations Economic Commission for Africa, African Development Bank, 2022-04-26 This report provides a new perspective on Africa's urban economies that is unique in its breadth and level of detail Based on data from more than 4 million individuals and firms in 2 600 cities across 34 countries it presents compelling evidence that urbanisation contributes to better economic outcomes and higher living standards

Urban Planning in Lusophone African Countries Carlos Nunes Silva, 2016-03-09 Urban planning on the five Lusophone African countries Angola Cape Verde Guinea Bissau Mozambique and Sao Tome and Principe has so far been relatively overlooked in planning literature Bringing together a team of leading scholars this book fills the gap by providing an in depth analysis of key issues in the history of urban planning and discussing the key challenges confronting contemporary urban planning in these countries The book argues that urban planning is a non neutral and non value free kind of public action and therefore ideology planning theories urban models and the ideological role urban planning has played are some of the key issues addressed For that reason the practice of Urban Planning is also seen as the outcome of a complex interrelationship between structure and agency with the role of key planners being examined in some of the chapters The findings and insights presented by the contributing authors confirm previous research on urban planning in the colonial and postcolonial periods in Lusophone African countries and at the same time break fresh ground and offer additional insights as new evidence has been collected from archives and in fieldwork carried out by a new generation of researchers In addition it outlines possible directions for future research
