Day, 2014-03-13 This is a unique contribution to discussions within churches about the provision of suitable words for liturgical worship and to debates among scholars about liturgical hermeneutics as well as offering a new methodological paradigm for liturgical studies to inspire students and researchers. By combining insights from literary and linguistic studies with those from historical and contemporary liturgical studies, Juliette Day investigates the nature of a text in relation to unscripted speech, how authors and worshipers make use of genre, narrative and other texts, how the textuality of the liturgy as well as its ritual context affect the sort of language used in worship and what implicit meanings are conveyed in the way liturgical texts are printed in books. Day discusses the history of liturgical texts and their function as well as liturgical genres and narratives. She examines the function of language in liturgical worship and emphasizes its meaning for readers, worshipers and speakers. Day applies insights from literary and linguistic studies to liturgical texts in a comprehensive fashion, making it accessible to a broad readership.

The Prayers of Saint Sarapion, the Bishop of Thmuis Saint Serapion (of Thmuis), 2023. St. Serapion ca. 339-360 was an ascetic and abbot in the Egyptian desert before becoming bishop of Thmuis. He was close to St. Anthony the Great and St. Athanasius, who addressed his four letters on the Holy Spirit to Serapion ca. 359-360. This translation of the Euchologion Serapionis contains the priestly prayers for the Divine Liturgy, for Baptism and for several other needs. Scholars have debated the order, date, authorship, nature, theology and liturgical context of this document. Maxwell E. Johnson's introduction addresses all of these questions, building upon his previous research and making it more broadly accessible. Publisher: The Apostolic Tradition.

Nathan P. Chase, Maxwell E. Johnson, 2025-04-15. Renowned liturgical scholars offer for the first time anywhere English translations and commentary of new witnesses to the Apostolic Tradition. In recent years, a number of new witnesses to the so-called Apostolic Tradition have been discovered or freshly edited for the first time. Among them is a new, recently discovered Ethiopic version of the Apostolic Tradition contained in the Aksumite Collection, edited by Alessandro Bausi. Also, the Arabic version of the Clementine Octateuch, while known for some time, has only recently been edited by Martin L. Straeten, allowing scholars access to this important witness. Each of these witnesses provides valuable insights into the origins and development of the Apostolic Tradition. Based on these new witnesses as well as new secondary literature, the translations and commentary provided in this book update and challenge earlier and more recent studies, with special regard to liturgical practices. In addition, English translations of these witnesses are provided for the first time anywhere. Revisiting an earlier claim held by J. M. Hanssens SJ, this study also argues that the final redaction of the text likely occurred within an Egyptian orbit.

Knowledge and the Coming Kingdom Jonathan Schwiebert, 2008-10-01. Schwiebert expertly examines the relationship between the Didache's meal ritual and the well-known tradition of Jesus' final meal. Early Christian Voices David Warren, Ann Graham Brock, David Pao, 2021-10-01. This collection of studies in honor of François Bovon highlights the rich diversity found within early expressions of Christianity as evidenced in ancient texts, traditions, symbols and motifs. Old labels like apocrypha or heresy that for centuries have suppressed much of this evidence are removed; previous assumptions are
