Sacred Dimensions Of Womens Experience:

Sacred Dimensions of Women's Experience Elizabeth Dodson Gray, 1988 Dear Sisters: A Womanist Practice of Hospitality N. Lynne Westfield, 2007-10-01 What allows African American women not just to survive but to become resilient N Lynne Westfield finds an answer to this question as she examines the Dear Sisters Literary Group As a Womanist scholar Westfield reflects on the ways in which the hospitality of the group relates to the long standing African American tradition of concealed gatherings the Christian tradition of hospitality and Christian education Ritual Making Women Jan Berry, 2017-07-05 Ritual Making Women looks at the way in which women s making of ritual has emerged from the rapidly developing field of women s spirituality and theology The author uses ethnographic material to explore how the construction of ritual uses story making and embodied action to empower women Ritual far from being a timeless and universal practice is shown to be a contextual and gendered performance in which women subvert conventional distinctions of private and public The book combines narrative and case study material and draws on feminist theology and theory social anthropology and gender studies Spiritual Dimensions of Pastoral Care John Swinton, David Willows, 2001-10-01 Written by significant researchers and practitioners within the field this unique collection of key texts introduces the reader to practical theology It critically explores the way in which the spiritual dimension of pastoral care has entered into constructive dialogue with other disciplines and ways of thinking WomanProphet Elizabeth Love, 2019-04-30 Most women are raised in a context of feminine values whether they are aware of those values or not Some of the values specific to this feminine culture are interdependence caring and relationality In our time many women cross over into a masculine value culture when they take on what were traditional male roles in male evolved institutions Eventually women become aware that their own values conflict with some assumed male values They then have to compromise and adjust in order to be productive in those environments The women I have focused on in this study have because of a significant external event or events and an emerging inner vision left both structures They then however lack others around them whose values structures can reinforce adherence When these women are by themselves they experience something like a dark night of the soul Once they get beyond the pain and a sense of meaninglessness they begin to realize that they can move the constructs of reality that they can write history as well as read it An essential concern is to determine what their values are After this process their own personal vision becomes clear But the cycle isn t complete until they bring that new vision back to their people And bringing it back in a holistic sense helps to raise the moral sights of others who are influenced by that experience Women and Christian Mission Frances Adeney, 2015-11-04 What are Christian women thinking about mission How do they do mission What informs their knowledge and action as they address issues in a complex world where religious proselytizing has become suspect This empirical study explores those questions finding congruence among women from diverse backgrounds and cultural contexts Women in mission face common identity issues utilize art and beauty in their work and develop character as they overcome obstacles in their cultural and denominational settings Through nearly one hundred interviews of women in Europe Asia Brazil and the United States a study of women s theologies of mission lectures and countless conversations with women around the globe this study finds common themes among contemporary women doing Christian mission This book fills a lacuna in mission studies that professors pastors and church women and men will find informative and refreshing

Groover, 1999-01-01

America's literature is notably marked by a preoccupation with the spiritual quest. Questing heroes from Huck Finn to Nick Adams have undertaken solitary journeys that pull them away from family and society and into a transformative wilderness that brings them to a new understanding of the spiritual world. Women, however, have not often been portrayed as questing heroes. Bound to home and community, they have been more frequently cast as representatives of that stifling world from which the hero is compelled to flee. Are women in American literary texts thus excluded from spiritual experience? Kristina K. Groover, in examining this question, finds that books by American women writers offer alternative patterns for seeking revelation: patterns which emphasize not solitary journeys but the sacredness of everyday life. Drawing on the work of feminist theorists and theologians including Carol Gilligan, Naomi Goldenberg, and Rosemary Ruether, Groover explores the spiritual nature and force of domesticity, community, storytelling, and the garden in the works of such writers as Toni Morrison, Katherine Anne Porter, Kaye Gibbons, and Alice Walker. Ordinary personal experience in these works becomes a source for spiritual revelation. Wisdom is gained, lessons are learned, and lives are healed not in spite of home and communal ties but because of them. Thus American women writers, Groover argues, make alternative literary and spiritual paradigms possible. Similarly, Kristina K. Groover in this lucid and groundbreaking work opens up new fields of exploration for any reader interested in women's spirituality or in the rich, diverse field of American literature.
