Sacred Sites and the Colonial Encounter Sandra E. Greene, 2002-05-14 Greene gives the reader a vivid sense of the Anlo encounter with western thought and Christian beliefs and the resulting erasures transferences adaptations and alterations in their perceptions of place space and the body Emmanuel Akyeampong Sandra E Greene reconstructs a vivid and convincing portrait of the human and physical environment of the 19th century Anlo Ewe people of Ghana and brings history and memory into contemporary context Drawing on her extensive fieldwork early European accounts and missionary archives and publications Greene shows how ideas from outside forced sacred and spiritual meanings associated with particular bodies of water burial sites sacred towns and the human body itself to change in favor of more scientific and regulatory views Anlo responses to these colonial ideas involved considerable resistance and over time the Anlo began to attribute selective varied and often contradictory meanings to the body and the spaces they inhabited Despite these multiple meanings Greene shows that the Anlo were successful in forging a consensus on how to manage their identity environment and community

The Intersection of Sacredness and Archaeology Donna L. Gillette, Thomas L. Sanders, 2024-10-01 At the point of the often contentious intersection of sacred site preservation and resource development archaeology has a unique and valuable role Archaeology has been criticized as a destroyer of sacred sites through the unbridled pursuit of knowledge through excavation or aiding unbridled development by failing to identify sacred sites However archaeology can act as a mitigator between the conflicting goals of preservation and development while giving the indigenous a voice At the heart of this mitigation is understanding the sacred how it might be physically manifested how those of diverse cultures understand it and how it is effected by the laws and norms of diverse cultures The purpose of this book is to enhance the discussion surrounding contemporary human interaction with our natural and cultural landscape Its first goal is make this discussion more productive and less contentious by presenting and thus recognizing the cultural ways of knowing and perspectives of indigenous people Its second goal is to foster the preservation of our scared landscape As more and more of our physical landscape is being altered worldwide through rapid growth and development the cultural landscape is also being changed and challenged These changes often reflect the interests of some members of society while the interests of others including those of Native and Indigenous communities and many archaeologists environmentalists and others who understand the importance of knowing the past are disregarded The latter group is dedicated toward preserving special places and continuing to provide for Native people the ability to celebrate their traditions and focusing on defining the sacred landscape

War on Sacred Grounds Ron E. Hassner, 2025-05-15 In War on Sacred Grounds Ron E Hassner investigates the causes and properties of struggles over sites that are both venerated and contested and proposes ways for managing these disputes Holy places can create the potential for clashes not only between competing religious groups but also between religious groups and secular actors Hassner illustrates this complex violent dynamic through a series of case studies including the conflict over Jerusalem and competing Hindu and Muslim claims over Ayodhya He also analyses successful compromises that reduced conflict in Jerusalem in 1967 and in Mecca in 1979 In this updated edition of War on Sacred Grounds Hassner reevaluates his findings and conclusions and surveys ongoing conflicts over holy sites

Sacred Sites and Repatriation Joe Watkins, 2009 An issue of paramount concern to the Native American community repatriation as it relates to sacred sites is explored in detail from both sides of the ongoing debate
