Birds in Scotland Valerie M. Thom, 2010-11-30 The most important work on the birds of Scotland ever published British Birds This comprehensive study and review of the birds in Scotland follows on from where the celebrated two volumes of The Birds of Scotland 1953 by Dr Baxter and Miss Rintoul left off It does more than that however since not only has there been a profound increase in ornithological coverage and data as reflected in the species accounts there have also been great changes in habitat and environment since the days of Baxter there are also brief summaries of earlier data based on the researches of Baxter Rintoul In all 497 species are dealt with The texts of major species accounts are complemented by 173 distribution maps and many tables of relevant data and there are 129 species drawings by a team of artists under the editorship of Donald Watson who also contributes chapter head pieces and other drawings A section of photographs illustrates the varied habitats typical of Scotland today There are further appendices and an extensive bibliography The book will be of great interest to all birdwatchers in Scotland but of special value too to the many thousands of birdwatching visitors from elsewhere in these islands and from countries abroad The Scottish Ornithologists Club for whom the book is published and all whose records and researches made the author's work possible have reason to be proud of Valerie Thom's achievement

Birds in North-East Scotland Then and Now Adam Watson, Ian Francis, 2012 Field observations mainly in the 1940s and comparison with recent records Adam Watson as a schoolboy made field observations on birds in north east Scotland during the 1940s and early 1950s These are of special interest because hardly any local ornithologists lived there and his main set of observations is published here for the first time As well as accounts for all species seen there is detailed information on several species whose status has changed greatly since declines of breeding greenshanks and ring ouzels and rapid increases in the proportions of feral doves and carrion crows These and other observations form a useful baseline for comparison with what is now being seen and recorded by hundreds of ornithologists living in and visiting the area Ian Francis came to north east Scotland in the early 1990s and has taken part in many aspects of local ornithology He was first editor of a major book The Breeding Birds of North East Scotland published in 2011 which documents the current breeding distributions of birds and assesses changes over 40 years allowing a modern perspective on Adam Watson's observations from the mid 1900s The current book by Adam Watson and Ian Francis Birds in north east Scotland then and now also includes a previously unpublished account of long term research by Adam Watson Rik Smith and Mick Marquiss on

Birds and Forestry Mark Avery,Roderick Leslie,2010-10-30 In this book an ornithologist and a forester have combined their skills to try and tease out the real facts behind the various arguments on forestry The conflict between forestry and nature conservation has become a major environmental issue in Britain in the 1980s The planting of large tracts of land with exotic conifers and the resulting disturbance of existing plant and animal communities has polarized the debate each camp believing that it has the most rational view But the interactions involved are complex Which bird species are really threatened How can we judge the relative value of bird species ousted by plantations and the new species which colonize them How can the need for forest products be reconciled with the demands of conservationists This fascinating book tackles these issues in a forthright manner

It represents a significant step towards achieving the sort of prudent land planning that will really improve our beleaguered countryside Jacket painting by Philip Snow Foreword by David Bellamy The Birds of Nottinghamshire Nick Crouch, Jason Reece, Bernie Ellis, Chris du Feu, David Parkin, 2019-11-29 The last comprehensive review of Nottinghamshire's birds was produced more than four decades ago Much has changed since then and a new avifauna is long overdue This book draws together historic reports from the nineteenth century records from the files of the county bird club Nottinghamshire Birdwatchers and data from national and regional surveys and monitoring programmes The resulting account presents an overview of the present state of the county's birdlife set against a context of environmental and climatic change The gravel pits in the Trent and Idle Valleys form major corridors for birds moving across Britain and Nottinghamshire has attracted more than its share of national rarities These include Britain's first Egyptian Nightjar and Lesser Yellowlegs in the nineteenth century Bufflehead Redhead Cedar Waxwing and breeding Black-winged Stilts in the twentieth century and a memorable nesting attempt by European Bee-eaters in 2017 The woods and heaths of Sherwood lying in the middle of the county also provide a haven for an array of iconic species including European Nightjar Eurasian Woodcock Honeybuzzard and Hawfinch This book describes the past and present status of the 334 species that have been recorded in Nottinghamshire up to 2018 Lavishly illustrated with photographs taken within the county and sketches from the internationally recognised artist Michael Warren it is intended to be an authoritative reference to the birds of Nottinghamshire The Nature of the Cairngorms Philip Shaw, Des B.A. Thompson, 2006-06-12 The Cairngorms area is arguably the most significant for nature conservation in the British Isles and contains its largest National Park In this book 35 authors drawing on published and unpublished sources present an up to date review of the area's natural features including plants animals habitats geology and landforms The review falls into three parts The first and largest part describes the area's rich diversity of nature with each chapter summarising recent research findings trends and conservation issues for a different landform habitat or species group The second part considers deer management recreation and projected climate change impacts Part three focuses on rare and threatened species and identifies areas and habitats rich in species for which the Cairngorms are nationally and internationally important Bird Life of Woodland and Forest Robert J.
