Intellectual property rights, technology diffusion, and agricultural development Spielman, David J.,Ma, Xingliang,2014-04-30 The role of intellectual property rights IPRs has been extensively debated in the literature on technology transfers and agricultural production in developing countries However few studies offer cross country evidence on how IPRs affect yield growth for example by incentivizing private sector investment in cultivar improvement We address this knowledge gap by testing technology diffusion patterns for six major crops using a unique dataset for the period 1961 2010 and an Arellano Bond linear dynamic panel data estimation approach Findings indicate that both biological and legal forms of IPRs tend to promote yield gap convergence between developed and developing countries although effects vary between crops NPA Report ,1999 CIMMYT World Wheat Facts and Trends ,1992 Journal of Economic

Shibles, 2022-02-26 This volume consists of full length manuscripts of 159 of the 165 invited papers presented at World Soybean Research Conference III that was held in the Scheman Continuing Education Building at Iowa State University August 12-17, 1984. The authors, widely recognized as world authorities in their fields, represent all aspects of soybean research activity: breeding and genetics, crop and soil management, economics, entomology, food science, international programs, nematology, pathology, physiology, plant nutrition, rhizobiology, utilization, and weed science. This proceedings, which contains more than 1200 pages of information including many tables and figures, represents the most extensive compilation of soybean research results since the previous proceedings were published in 1980. It should be of value to research scientists, students, and administrators alike.
