Merchants and Mariners of the 18th Century Conrad Gill, 1978      The Atlantic Economy during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries Peter A. Coclanis, 2020-05-21 The Atlantic Economy during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries is a collection of essays focusing on the expansion elaboration and increasing integration of the economy of the Atlantic basin comprising parts of Europe West Africa and the Americas during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries In thirteen essays the contributors examine the complex and variegated processes by which markets were created in the Atlantic basin and how they became integrated While a number of the contributors focus on the economic history of a specific European imperial system others mirroring the realities of the world they are writing about transcend imperial boundaries and investigate topics shared throughout the region In the latter case the contributors focus either on processes occurring along the margins or interstices of empires or on breaches in the colonial systems established by various European powers Taken together the essays shed much needed light on the organization and operation of both the European imperial orders of the early modern era and the increasingly integrated economy of the Atlantic basin challenging these orders over the course of the same period      The English Gentleman Merchant at Work Søren Mentz, 2005 During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries servants in the East India Company established a private English trading network that was successful and highly competitive How was this development maintained seeing that the group of private merchants was constantly changing The answer must be found in the close ties connecting Madras with the City of London London was the financial centre of the British Empire as well as the generator of overseas expansion Colonial societies in the West Indies and North America were economically and socially dependent upon the metropolis and so was Madras This book places the activities of the private merchants in Madras within the framework of the first British Empire It focuses on a hitherto neglected field of study uncovering a private trading network a diaspora built on gentlemanly capitalism trust and ethnicity      The East India Company's Maritime Service, 1746-1834 Jean Sutton, 2010 The book charts in detail successive voyages by members of the Larkins family who were leading owners of East India Company ships showing what it was like to sail to and trade with India in this period It provides a great deal of material on trade warfare developments in seamanship and navigation the opening up of trade to China and much more      Goods from the East, 1600-1800 Maxine Berg, Felicia Gottmann, Hanna Hodacs, Chris Nierstrasz, 2015-07-13 Goods from the East focuses on the fine product trade s first Global Age how products were made marketed and distributed between Asia and Europe between 1600 and 1800 It brings together established scholars as well as new to provide a full comparative and connective study of this trade      Mariners, Merchants And The Military Too Phillip Jones, 2012-01-28 Reportedly the largest Empire that has ever existed throughout human history at its height the British Empire was reported to have ruled over some four hundred and fifty millions subjects a quarter of the world s population at the beginning of the 20th century and controlled an estimated thirteen million square miles of territory around 25%% of the world s total land surface This five hundred page project tries to take a balanced view of Britain s vast imperial possessions how they were acquired how they were lost and their histories since they gained independence The publication attempts to take a specific look at some of the more troubling aspects of the Empires past including those dealing with the Troubles in Ireland the Transatlantic Slave Trade the Indian Subcontinent the European Scramble for Africa as well as the numerous wars and battles that such imperial expansionism created
