Politics of Southern Equality Frederick M. Wirt, 2017-07-12
This path breaking text deals with the effects of federal civil rights legislation on the behavior and attitudes of the inhabitants of a single county in Mississippi Panola County These effects are examined in the three civil rights areas of voting education and economic opportunities By using this smaller example Frederick M Wirt's broader interest is to show how legislation can be used to effect social change on a large scale The need to substitute empirical knowledge for abstract speculation motivates Wirt's study Wirt restricts his study to one county but with conclusions on comparative studies that illumine the emerging political sociology of the South The author sketches the historical setting of Panola County emphasizing on the demographic economic and political developments in recent decades He then examines what has actually happened in race relations as an effect of civil rights laws affecting votes schools and jobs Wirt utilizes documentary material from federal state and county sources local newspapers and records from business and other groups But his closer understanding comes from personal interviews Because federal law is the dynamic factor setting the social system in movement the author explains the interactions between public opinion the President and the Congress which in the end resulted in the laws on votes schools and jobs He also deals with the differing machinery of sanctions and enforcement Law has a huge effect on social change and Wirt draws from his empirical study a systematic inclusive statement of the factors affecting compliance with law in conditions of conventional biases
