US Economic Aid in Egypt Dina Jadallah,2016-01-27 Economic aid is one of the cornerstones of the Egyptian American relationship and plays a significant role in promoting US policy objectives in the Middle East Focusing on the latter half of Hosni Mubarak's rule Dina Jadallah argues that through its aid policy the US has attempted to use a reforming and democratising narrative to transform Egypt into a stable market democracy that would be aligned with US interests in the region This aim has been pursued in conjunction with one that promoted a comprehensive warm peace with Israel By highlighting the opposition within Egypt to US aid Jadallah analyses the key issues that came to the fore during the 2010-11 protests in the country and led to the downfall of Mubarak Extending her analysis into the post revolutionary period the author provides interviews with regime insiders and prominent critics inside state institutions and outside who actively challenged the regime This enables her to assess the different perceptions of US aid both under Mubarak and in the current political situation contributing to an incisive analysis of modern Egypt and its relations with its superpower ally in the region

Managing Politics and Islam in Indonesia Donald J. Porter, 2013-08-21 First published in 2004. This text examines the politics of Islam and the state of Indonesia over recent decades during which time there has been a notable resurgence of Islamic political movements. It argues that after the state had consistently worked to restrict and exclude political Islam from power in the late 1980s and 1990s, there was a change whereby Suharto courted the support and began to incorporate Muslim interests within the political system.

Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective Georgia A. Persons, 2018-04-24 Contradictory forces are at play at the close of the twentieth century. There is a growing closeness of peoples fueled by old and new technologies of modern aviation, digital-based communications, new patterns of trade and commerce, and growing affluence of significant portions of the world's population. Television permits individuals around the world to learn about the cultures and lifestyles of peoples of physically distant lands. These developments give real meaning to the notion of a global village. Peoples of the world are growing closer in new and increasingly important ways. Nonetheless, there are disturbing signs of a growing awareness of ethnic differences in all parts of the world. The United States included, and a concomitant rise in ethnic-based conflicts, many of them extraordinarily violent in nature. Fear, resentment, intolerance, and mistreatment of the other abound in world news accounts. Not only does this phenomenon pose an interesting juxtaposition to the concept of the emergent global village, but its emergence in the post-cold war era internationally and the post-civil rights era in the United States raises significant and compelling questions. Why are such conflicts occurring now? How do analysts explain these developments? The essays in Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective lucidly explore some of the complexities of the persistence and re-emergence of race and ethnicity as major lines of divisiveness around the world. Contributors analyze manifestations of race-based movements for political empowerment in Europe and Latin America, as well as racial intolerance in these same settings. Attention is also given to the conceptual complexities of multidimensional and shared cultural roots of the overlapping phenomena of ethnicity, nationalism, identity, and ideology. The book greatly informs discussions of race and ethnicity in the international context and provides an interesting perspective against which to view America's changing problem of race. Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective is a timely, thought-provoking volume that will be of immense value to ethnic studies specialists, African American studies scholars, political scientists, historians, and sociologists.

Media Politics in China Maria Repnikova, 2017-06-15 Maria Repnikova offers an innovative analysis of the media oversight role in China by examining how a volatile partnership is sustained between critical journalists and the state.

Comparative Public Administration Eric E. Otenyo, Nancy S. Lind, Lawrence R. Jones, 2006-07-24 Public administration scholars and practitioners are increasingly concerned with the need to broaden the field's scope beyond particularistic accounts of administration in given countries This title brings together seminal readings in comparative development public administration and contemporary public management scholarship Zimbabwe: Mired in Transition V. Masunungure, M. Shumba, 2014-04-02 Three years after the advent of Zimbabwe's Inclusive Government in February 2009 the country still awaits the elections that people hope will lead to a more enduring political settlement Zimbabwe Mired in Transition reviews the experience of recent years assesses the progress that has been made What is the public mood and how has it changed What steps have been taken to reform the media How important is a new constitution Although the economy has stabilised to some extent with the adoption of a multi currency regime industrial and agricultural production are depressed and investment inflows are limited what spaces exist for fiscal reform Are local authority structures and the state bureaucracy equipped to handle the tasks that will be asked of them In terms of two important areas the book extends its analysis further back than 2009 First is the issue of emigration Estimates of the number of Zimbabweans in the diaspora range from three to four million what impact does this have on national development and to what extent might the trend of migration be reversed The second concerns young people the chapter on which concludes We already have a lost generation those who were once called the born frees Unless positive changes are made we will still have another This collection of eleven essays examines in detail some of the pressing questions which Zimbabweans must ask as they chart a way forward
