African Politics in Comparative Perspective Goran Hyden,2013 This revised and expanded second edition of African Politics in Comparative Perspective reviews fifty years of research on politics in Africa and addresses some issues in a new light keeping in mind the changes in Africa since the first edition was written in 2004 The book synthesizes insights from different scholarly approaches and offers an original interpretation of the knowledge accumulated in the field Goran Hyden discusses how research on African politics relates to the study of politics in other regions and mainstream theories in comparative politics He focuses on such key issues as why politics trumps economics rule is personal state is weak and policies are made with a communal rather than an individual lens The book also discusses why in the light of these conditions agriculture is problematic gender contested ethnicity manipulated and relations with Western powers a matter of defiance

Migration, Urbanization, and Development Richard E.

Bilsborrow,1998 Internal migration and urbanization are key dimensions of the process of socioeconomic development The unprecedented movement of peoples within the borders of their own countries is one of the greatest transformations witnessed in the 20th century Policy analysts especially those from developing countries where internal migration can be felt at first hand view migration as one of the most important factors affecting the course of development It is within this context that UNFPA convened the Symposium on Internal Migration and Urbanization in Developing Countries in January 1996 in preparation for the United Nations World Conference on Human Settlements in Istanbul in June 1996 The final results of the symposium are found in this book This volume provides a better understanding at global level of internal migration issues of concern to policy analysts

Transforming Displaced Women in Sudan Rogaia Mustafa Abusharaf,2009-08-01 Over twenty years of civil war in predominantly Christian Southern Sudan has forced countless people from their homes Transforming Displaced Women in Sudan examines the lives of women who have forged a new community in a shantytown on the outskirts of Khartoum the largely Muslim heavily Arabized capital in the north of the country Sudanese born anthropologist Rogaiya Mustafa Abusharaf delivers a rich ethnography of this squatter settlement based on personal interviews with displaced women and careful observation of the various strategies they adopt to reconstruct their lives and livelihoods Her findings debunk the myth that these settlements are utterly abject and instead she discovers a dynamic culture where many women play an active role in fighting for peace and social change Abusharaf also examines the way women's bodies are politicized by their displacement analyzing issues such as religious conversion marriage and female circumcision An urgent dispatch from the ongoing humanitarian crisis in northeastern Africa Transforming Displaced Women in Sudan will be essential for anyone concerned with the interrelated consequences of war forced migration and gender inequality Urban Poverty in the Global South Diana Mitlin, David Satterthwaite, 2013 This is compounded by the lack of voice and influence that low income groups have in these official spheres Neoliberal Bandwagonism. Civil society and the politics of belonging in Anglophone Cameroon Piet Konings, 2009-11-01 Civil society and empowerment have become buzz words in neoliberal development discourse Yet many unanswered questions remain on the actual nature and configuration assumed by civil society in specific contexts Typically while neoliberals perceive civil society organisations as vital intermediary channels for the successful implementation of desired economic and political reforms they are inclined to blame the current resurgence of the politics of belonging for the poor record of these reforms in Africa and elsewhere This book rejects such notions and argues that the relationship between civil society and the politics of belonging is more complex in Africa than western donors and scholars are willing to admit Konings argues that ethno regional associations and movements are even more significant constituents of civil society in Africa than the conventional civil society organisations that are often uncritically imposed or endorsed He convincingly shows how the politics of belonging so pervasive in Cameroon and indeed much of Africa during the current neoliberal economic and political reforms has tended to penetrate the entire range of associational life This calls for a critical re appraisal of prevalent notions and assumptions about civil society in the interest of African reality Hence the importance of this book

Contextualising Poverty in Tanzania Werner Biermann, H. P. B. Moshi, 1997 This volume co published with Dar es Salaam University Press includes an introduction by Werner Biermann and the important subject of contextualizing poverty in Africa Africa Patrick Chabal, 2013-04-04 The question usually asked about Africa is why is it going wrong Is the continent still suffering from the ravages of colonialism Or is it the victim of postcolonial economic exploitation poor governance and lack of aid Whatever the answer increasingly the result is poverty and violence In Africa The Politics of Suffering and Smiling Patrick Chabal approaches this question differently by reconsidering the role of theory in African politics Chabal discusses the limitations of existing political theories of Africa and proposes a different starting point arguing that political thinking ought to be driven by the need to address the immediacy of everyday life and death How do people define who they are Where do they belong What do they believe How do they struggle to survive and improve their lives

What is the impact of illness and poverty In doing so Chabal proposes a radically different way of looking at politics in Africa and illuminates the ways ordinary people suffer and smile This is a highly original addition to Zed s groundbreaking World Political Theories series Gender and Plantation Labour in Africa Piet Konings,2012-07-27 This book explores the relationship between plantation labour and gender in Africa Such a study is the more opportune because most of the existing works on plantation labour in Africa seem to have either under studied or even ignored the changing conceptions of gender on the continent in recent times One of the books major concerns is to demonstrate that the introduction of plantation labour during colonial rule in Africa has had significant consequences for gender roles and relations within and beyond the capitalist labour process The book focuses on two tea estates in Anglophone Cameroon A study of these estates is particularly interesting in that one of them employs mainly female pluckers while the other employs mainly male pluckers This allows for an examination of any variations in male and female workers modes of resistance to the control and exploitation they meet in the labour process Such a comparative analysis is helpful in assessing the widespread managerial assumption on tea estates that female pluckers tend to be more productive and docile than male pluckers Squatter Citizen Jorge E. Hardoy,David Satterthwaite,2014-04-23 one of the best contemporary statements of what is occurring in the growth of urban places in the Third World Environment and Planning a book that should enjoy a wide appeal as a plea for adoption of the popular approach as a text for student use and as an accessible and stimulating guide to the urban problems of developing countries Progress in Human Geography a very readable book containing a lot of well documented information The book is especially relevant for interested lay people but many professionals will benefit from having a copy on the bookshelf Third World Planning Review The true planners and builders of Third World cities are the poor They organize plan and build with no help from professionals Drawing on their own skills making the best use of limited resources and forming their own community organizations they account for most new city housing But the city which thrives on their cheap labour rejects them Their houses are deemed illegal because they do not conform to regulations and they are called squatters because they cannot afford to buy sites legally Their right to water education and health care even to vote are often denied This book challenges many common assumptions about the urban Third World for example that urban citizens live in very large cities and that cities are growing rapidly or that city dwellers benefit from urban bias in government and aid policies It is about the lives of the squatter citizens and the problems they face in their struggle for survival Labour Relations in Development Alex Fernández Jilberto,Marieke Riethof,2002-08-22 This timely and well written collection explores the impact of economic reforms in developing and transitional economies across the world In a first of its kind this book examines such issues as in depth cross regional analysis of the pressures for global integration labour costs and their determinants crucial factors in the success of econo
