Politics And Cultural Values Asian Experience In North American Series:

Contemporary Clinical Practice with Asian Immigrants Irene Chung, Tazuko Shibusawa, 2013-07-31 Many first and second generation Asian immigrants experience acculturation challenges to varying extents. These challenges such as language barriers, racial discrimination, underemployment, the loss of support networks and changes in family role and structure may exacerbate a myriad of mental health issues. In addition, their help-seeking behaviour as shaped by a general adherence to a collectivistic worldview and indirect communication style often creates challenges for the practitioners who are trained under a Western practice modality. Drawing on literature from English speaking countries with sizeable Asian immigrant populations such as the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the United Kingdom, this text is designed especially for clinicians and students working with Asian immigrant populations. It discusses the therapeutic process in psychotherapy and counselling with these clients, exploring both key psychodynamic constructs and social systemic factors. Building on contemporary relational theory which emphasizes the centrality of the helping relationship and sensitivity to the client's subjective realities, the book demonstrates how western-based concepts and skills can be broadened and applied in an Asiacentric context and can be therapeutic even in social service and case management service settings. There are chapters on issues such as domestic violence, intergenerational conflicts, depression amongst elders and suicide, discussing the prevalence and nature of the mental health issues and each containing case vignettes from various Asian ethnic groups to illustrate the application of relational approaches. This book is an important cross-cultural reference for practising social workers and counsellors as well as for social work students undertaking clinical practice courses.

Reading Asian American Literature Sau-ling Cynthia Wong, 1993-07-12 A recent explosion of publishing activity by a wide range of talented writers has placed Asian American literature in the limelight. As the field of Asian American literary studies gains increasing recognition, however, questions of misreading and appropriation inevitably arise. How is the growing body of Asian American works to be read? What holds them together to constitute a tradition? What distinguishes this tradition from the mainstream canon and other minority literatures? In the first comprehensive book on Asian American literature since Elaine Kim's ground-breaking 1982 volume, Sau-ling Wong addresses these issues and explores their implications for the multiculturalist agenda. Wong does so by establishing the intertextuality of Asian American literature through the study of four motifs: food and eating, the Doppelgänger figure, mobility and play in their multiple sociohistorical contexts. Occurring across ethnic subgroup, gender, class, generational and historical boundaries, these motifs resonate with each other in distinctly Asian American patterns that universalistic theories cannot uncover. Two rhetorical figures from Maxine Hong Kingston's The Woman Warrior, Necessity and Extravagance, further unify this original, wide-ranging investigation. Authors studied include Carlos Bulosan, Frank Chin, Ashley Sheun Dunn, David Henry Hwang, Lonny Kaneko, Maxine Hong Kingston, Joy Kogawa, David Wong Louie, Darrell Lum, Wing Tek Lum, Toshio Mori, Bharati Mukherjee, Fae Myenne Ng, Bienvenido Santos.
