decade the once marginal extreme right of the Turkish ideological spectrum has grown in size as well as in influence and has effectively reshaped party competition in Turkey Policy mandates and electoral bases of the rising extreme right rely on potentially explosive social cleavages in the country One such confrontation is between the secularist and pro Islamist forces which has always been one of the centrepieces of modern Turkish politics The rise of pro Islamist electoral forces from a marginal to an undeniably imposing position in Turkish electoral politics has led many to worry that a deep rooted schism has come to the forefront of Turkish politics The frontline of this secularist vs pro Islamist confrontation is quite widespread ranging from a debate around the ban of turban and headscarves in universities to religious education in the country from Islamic principles in the economy to Turkish foreign policy towards the Middle Eastern countries This volume was previously published as a special issue of the journal Turkish Studies

academic and policy debates The relationship between politics and religion in Turkey originating from the early years of the Republicanism has been central to many if not all of these issues This book looks at how centralized religion has turned into a means of controlling and organizing the Turkish polity under the AKP Justice and Development Party governments by presenting the results from a study on Turkish hutbes mosque sermons analysing how their content relates to gender roles and identities The book argues that the political domination of a secular state as an agency over religion has not suppressed but transformed religion into a political tool for the same agency to organise the polity and the society along its own ideological tenets It looks at how this domination organises gender roles and identities to engender human capital to serve for a neoliberal economic developmentalism The book then discusses the limits of this domination reflecting on how its subjects position themselves between the politico religious authority and their secular lives Written in an accessible format this book provides a fresh perspective on the relationship between religion and politics in the Middle East More broadly it also sheds light on global moral politics and illiberalism and why it relates to gender religion and economics

The Kurds and the Politics of Turkey Deniz Çifçi, 2019-08-08 The Kurds constitute the largest stateless nation in the world Their position in Turkey attracts attention both within the country and internationally particularly focusing on the demand for Kurdish independence Yet since the 1990s new Kurdish parties have formed within Turkey who have a variety of ideologies and demands that go beyond and differ in opinion on the question of independence Much of the present literature on the topic looks at the Kurds of Turkey as a homogenous group with unified political demands which over simplifies their position within the political backdrop of Turkey This book seeks to provide nuance and depth to the current debate on Kurdish political agency and presence in Turkey Presently the Kurds political demands can be classified into four categories democratic autonomy their cultural rights to be granted federalism territorial autonomies and independence creation of a Kurdish nation state In a broad sense these models can also be ordered into two categories territorial political models federalism and independence and non territorial political models democratic autonomy and cultural rights Considering the diversity within the Kurdish community intertwinement of tribal ethnic and national identity and differences in their language religion and ideology there are several contributing factors for the emergence of the current varied political demands of Kurds By explaining variation among the Kurds political demands through close analysis of existing at emerging parties this study challenges a deterministic approach to the Kurds which currently dominates the discourse

Turkey and the Politics of National Identity Shane Brennan, Marc Herzog, 2014-09-19 In the first decade of the twenty first century Turkey experienced an extraordinary set of transformations In 2001 in the midst of financial difficulties the country was under IMF stewardship yet it has recently emerged as one of the fastest growing economies in the world And on the international stage Turkey has managed to enhance its position from being a backseat NATO member and outside candidate for EU membership to being an influential regional power determining and developing its own individual foreign policy

Shane Brennan and Marc Herzog explore how these and other changes have shaped the way people in Turkey perceive themselves and how the country's self image shapes its actions. In the modern age the sovereign nation state still continues to be one of the basic building blocks of social or political identity. The Turkish Republic founded in 1923 is a good example. In weaving together and selecting certain elements of memory, myth, tradition and symbols, the narratives of national identity in Turkey have been to a large extent socially constructed. This volume offers analysis of the ways in which these narratives have been created, maintained and negotiated, and how current economic and political interests have been incorporated into the construction of a modern identity. External forces such as those of cultural and economic globalisation have also been influential agents in this process. As a result, the space and opportunity for social and cultural expression has increasingly widened, while alternative identities and life style choices at both the collective and individual levels have also become more visible. Bearing this in mind, this book examines issues such as those of alternative gender identity and sexual orientation, formerly taboo issues. Through different approaches engaging with politics, economy, society, culture and history, Turkey and the Politics of National Identity offers new perspectives on the transformation of national identity in this increasingly influential country in the Middle East.

Secular and Islamic Politics in Turkey Ümit Cizre, 2008-03-25. The Politics of the Female Body in Contemporary Turkey Hilal Alkan, Ayşe Dayı, Sezin Topçu, Betül Yazar, 2021-05-20. In Turkey the Justice and Development Party government has introduced new regulations about reproductive rights and shifted family and gender policies. Women's central role in reproductive and domestic work was swiftly reaffirmed and abortion and IVF were newly debated. Taking Turkey as the case study, this is the first book to examine the various ways neoliberal modes of governing women's bodies interact with conservative and authoritarian measures. The contributions focus on reproduction, maternity and sexuality to explore the three main areas of governmental interventions into the female body. Topics for discussion include the expansion of IVF and egg markets, the privatization of gynaecological and obstetrical care, differential treatment of poor and ethnic minority women's fertility, sexuality and women's multiple responses to these shifts. While focusing on Turkey, the book presents analytical tools applicable under rising authoritarianisms and conservatism worldwide.
