Politics In The Vernacular Nationalism Multiculturalism And Citizenship:

Politics in the Vernacular Will Kymlicka, 2001 Multiculturalism and the Foundations of Meaningful Life Andrew M. Robinson, 2011-01-01 Theories of liberal multiculturalism seek to reconcile cultural rights with universal liberal principles Some focus on individual autonomy others emphasize communal identity Andrew Robinson argues that liberal multiculturalism can be justified without privileging either By appealing to the deeper value of meaningful life he shows how autonomy and community are actually interdependent He concludes by illustrating with reference to national and ethnic minorities indigenous peoples and traditional communities the policy principles that can be derived from this position An innovative account of the theory and practice of liberal multiculturalism Multiculturalism and the Foundations of Meaningful Life will interest students scholars activists and policy makers working in areas of political theory multiculturalism indigenous peoples and ethnic and religious minorities

Politics in the Vernacular Will Kymlicka, 2001 This volume brings together 15 of Will Kymlicka's most important essays tackling pressing issues of immigration nationalism multiculturalism and the meaning of citizenship in today's increasingly pluralistic societies The Present Politics of the Past Seán Patrick Eudaily, 2004-10-29 Each phrase in the title of this work gives a clue as to its purpose and agenda The present politics of the past refers to the conditions that have arisen in the recent politics of advanced liberal states with indigenous populations such as the U S Canada Aotearoa New Zealand and Australia where the past is an issue or even at stake in contemporary struggles

American Identity and the Politics of Multiculturalism Jack Citrin, David O. Sears, 2014-08-11 This book uses national public opinion data and public opinion data from Los Angeles to compare ethnic differences in patriotism and ethnic identity and ethnic differences in support for multicultural norms and group conscious policies The authors find evidence of strong patriotism among all groups and the classic pattern of assimilation among the new wave of immigrants

The Politics of Reconciliation in Multicultural Societies Will Kymlicka, Bashir Bashir, 2008 Most countries around the world exhibit a long history of exclusion and discrimination directed against ethnic racial national religious or ideological groups The underlying justifications for these forms of exclusion have been increasingly discredited by the post war human rights revolution decolonization and by contemporary norms of liberal democratic constitutionalism with their commitment to equal rights and non discrimination However even as these older practices and ideologies of exclusion are discredited and repudiated they continue to have enduring effects The legacies of exclusion can still be seen in a wide range of social attitudes cultural practices economic and demographic patterns and institutional rules that obstruct efforts to build genuinely inclusive societies of equal citizens Finding ways to overcome this problem is a major challenge facing virtually every society around the world The Politics of Reconciliation in Multicultural Societies focuses on two parallel intellectual and political movements that have arisen to address this challenge the politics of reconciliation with its focus on reparations truth telling and healing amongst former adversaries and the politics of difference with its focus on the recognition and empowerment of minorities in multicultural societies Both the politics of reconciliation and the politics of difference are having a profound impact on the theory and practice of democracy around the world but remarkably little has been written about the relationship between them This book aims to fill that gap Drawing on both theoretical analysis and case studies from around the world the authors explore how the politics of reconciliation and the politics of difference often interact in mutually supportive ways as reconciliation leads to more multicultural conceptions of citizenship But there are also important ways in which the two may compete in their aims and methods The Politics of Reconciliation in Multicultural Societies is the first attempt to systematically explore these areas of potential convergence and divergence

Constitutionalising Secession David Haljan, 2014-11-01 Constitutionalising Secession proceeds from the question What if anything does the law have to say about a secession crisis But rather than approaching secession through the optic of political or nationalist institutional accommodation this book focuses on the underpinnings to a constitutional order as a law making community underpinnings laid bare by secession pressures Relying on the corrosive effects of secession it explores the deep structure of a constitutional order and the motive forces creating and sustaining that order A core idea is that the normativity of law is best understood through a constitutional optic as an integrative associative force Constitutionalising Secession critically analyses conceptions of constitutional order implicit in the leading models of secession and takes as a leading case study the judicial and legislative response to secession in Canada The book therefore develops a concept of constitutionalism and law making associative constitutionalism to describe their deep structure as a continuing integrative process of association This model of a dynamic process of value formation can address both the association and the disassociation of constitutional systems Multiculturalism and Moral Conflict Maria Dimova-Cookson, Peter

Stirk, 2009-10-16 Bringing together leading scholars on multiculturalism this book confronts the reality of moral conflict in the debate on multiculturalism while resisting the simplification which frequently accompanies commentary on both sides of a polarised debate Group Politics and Social Movements in Canada, Second Edition Miriam Smith, 2014-04-04 Group

Politics and Social Movements in Canada Second Edition updates and expands its exploration of a wide range of organized group and social movement activity in Canadian politics Particularly distinctive is the inclusion of Quebec nationalism and Aboriginal politics Many other areas of collective activity are also included the Occupy movement and anti poverty organizing ethnocultural political mobilization disability lesbian and gay politics feminism farmers and organized interests in agriculture Christian evangelical groups environment and health movements Contributors to the collection employ a number of theoretical perspectives from political science and sociology to describe the evolution of organized groups and movements and to evaluate successes in exercising influence on Canadian politics Each chapter provides an overview of the group or movement along with an account of its main networks and organizations strategies goals successes and failures Beyond multiculturalism it has been widely discussed within the fields of political theory social policy cultural studies and law Beyond Multiculturalism is the first volume of its kind to offer a comparative worldwide view of multiculturalism considering both traditional multicultural multiethnic societies and those where cultural pluralism is relatively new Its varied case studies focus on the intersections and relationships between cultural groups in everyday life using employment identity consumption language legislation and policy making to show the unique contribution anthropologists can bring to multiculturalism studies Their work will be of great interest to scholars of race ethnicity migration urban studies and social and cultural geography

Creating the Desired Citizen Ihsan Yilmaz, 2021-05-27 For decades after the declaration of the Republic of Turkey in 1923 the Turkish state promoted the idea of a desired citizen The Kemalist state treated these citizens as superior with full rights but the others those outside this desired citizenship were either tolerated or considered undesirable citizens And this caused the marginalization of ethnic and religious minorities religious Muslims and leftists alike In this book Ihsan Yilmaz shows how historical traumas victimhood insecurities anxieties fears and siege mentality have negatively impacted on and radicalised the nation building projects of the two competing hegemonic ideologies regimes those of Ataturk and Erdogan and their treatment of majority and minority ethnic religious and political groups Yilmaz reveals the significant degree of overlap between the desired undesired citizen and tolerated citizen categories of these two regimes showing how both regimes aimed to create a perception of a homogenous Turkish nation

Identity/Difference Politics Rita Dhamoon, 2010-01-01 Theories of liberal multiculturalism have come to dominate debates about identity and difference politics in recent contemporary western political theory This book offers a nuanced critique of these debates by questioning liberal multiculturalism's preoccupation with culture and just as important its unintended consequences Identity Difference Politics switches the focus from culture to power Issues of power are examined through accounts of meaning making those processes through which meanings of difference are produced organized and regulated Other forms of identity difference such as whiteness ableism gender and heteronormativity establish the analytic and normative value of Dhamoon's alternative theoretical framework and reveal that an exclusive preoccupation with culture can dissolve into essentialism which too often provides a rationale for state regulation of groups deemed to be too different Students of contemporary political theory multiculturalism identity politics Canadian politics and culture disability studies critical race theory and feminist and gender theory will find it an invaluable resource

Ideational Legacies and the Politics of Migration in European Minority Regions Christina Isabel Zuber, 2022-05-02 In this book Christina Zuber outlines a theory of ideational policy stabilization to explain stable policy choices despite changing incentives Historical legacies are frequently invoked in popular and academic accounts of the politics of migration but the mechanisms of transmission are left underspecified This work contributes to research on migration and to theories of public policy by arguing that the missing link between past events and present choices is ideational initially a historical constellation of interests leads actors to defend policy ideas that match the historical environment but over time ideas can detach themselves from interests and stabilize into societal dispositions shared values and identities This occurs if elites build a discursive consensus around a policy idea and if bureaucrats develop concomitant policy practices The book's empirical section analyses ideational stabilization in Catalonia Spain which takes an inclusive approach to immigration and in South Tyrol Italy where immigration is framed as a threat The comparison shows that these differences can be explained by the political economy of historical industrialization and internal migration Catalans were in the driving seat of industrialization receiving unskilled migrant workers from the rest of Spain to boost their own economy South Tyroleans on the other hand were in the passenger seat perceiving incoming Italians as colonizers Over time socioeconomic conditions changed and internal migration was replaced with international migration Yet with historical ideas having stabilized into dispositions political and administrative elites continued to understand immigration through the now obsolete perspective of economic opportunity in Catalonia and ethnic competition in South Tyrol Transformations in Governance is a major academic book series from Oxford University Press It is designed to accommodate the impressive growth of research in comparative politics international relations public policy federalism and environmental and urban studies concerned with the dispersion of authority from central states to supranational institutions subnational governments and public private networks It brings together work that advances our understanding of the organization causes and consequences of multilevel and complex governance The series is selective containing annually a small number of books of exceptionally high quality by leading and emerging scholars The series is edited by Liesbet Hooghe and Gary Marks of the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill and Walter Mattli of the University of Oxford

Negotiating Diversity Matthew Festenstein, 2005-01-14 Debates about cultural diversity have become an important controversial and inescapable features of the politics of modern democracies Negotiating Diversity offers a lucid and accessible analysis of the political theory of multiculturalism It is an ideal text for students looking for an overview of the state of play in this area The book explores the ways the concept of culture has been used in political theory and critically evaluates contemporary liberal responses to multiculturalism including the work of key political philosophers such as Will Kymlicka Brian Barry and Chandran Kukathas drawing on a range of real world examples to illustrate its arguments It provides critique of the tendency to reify cultural identity in political thinking particularly through an examination of contemporary liberalism In its place the author develops a deliberative alternative which views the politics of cultural diversity as a fallible process of negotiation argument and compromise He confronts objections that this alternative itself offers an unrealistic or oppressive vision of politics and explores the fragility of trust in the politics of multicultural societies

Culture Politics and Linguistic Recognition in Taiwan Jean-Francois Dupre, 2017-02-24 The consolidation of Taiwanese identity in recent years has been accompanied by two interrelated paradoxes a continued language shift from local Taiwanese languages to Mandarin Chinese and the increasing subordination of the Hoklo majority culture in ethnic policy and public identity discourses A number of initiatives have been undertaken toward the revitalization and recognition of minority cultures At the same time however the Hoklo majority culture has become akin to a political taboo This book examines how the interplay of ethnicity national identity and party politics has shaped current debates on national culture and linguistic recognition in Taiwan It suggests that the ethnolinguistic distribution of the electorate has led parties to adopt distinctive strategies in an attempt to broaden their ethnic support bases On the one hand the DPP and the KMT have strived to play down their respective de Sinicization and Sinicization ideologies as well as their Hoklo and Chinese ethnocultural cores At the same time the parties have competed to portray themselves as the legitimate protectors of minority interests by promoting Hakka and Aboriginal cultures These concomitant logics have discouraged parties from appealing to ethnonationalist rhetoric prompting them to express their antagonistic ideologies of Taiwanese and Chinese nationalism through more liberal conceptions of language rights Therefore the book argues that constraints to cultural and linguistic recognition in Taiwan are shaped by political rather than cultural and sociolinguistic factors Investigating Taiwan's counterintuitive ethnolinguistic situation this book makes an important theoretical contribution to the literature to many fields of study and will appeal to scholars of Taiwanese politics sociolinguistics culture and history
