

Disadvantages

- The transition from the hunter gather lifestyle to a civilization wasn't always successful, there were several risks and trade-offs involved.
- One major peril was the possibility of agricultural failure. The implementing of an agricultural system is time consuming and must be in the correct conditions.
- Crops may not grow at a quick enough rate or grow at all. Lack of rations could severely harm the well-being of the group. If their attempt is unsuccessful, then the society has not only wasted time, but effort as well. Ultimately, this negative occurrence could severely hinder the progression of the society.

Loconto, Douglas H. Constance, 2024-02-01 The greatest challenges of the twenty first century stem from the fact that we are now living in a new epoch the Anthropocene The human footprint on the planet can no longer be denied One of the greatest and most essential human innovations agriculture is being increasingly recognised as a leading contributor to climate change According to global governance bodies the world will need to feed a predicted nine billion people by 2050 However in this Anthropocene we must address the environmental inequalities in how these people will be fed This book explores our current societal struggles to transition towards more sustainable agrifood systems It suggests that debates around sustainable agriculture must be social as well as technical exploring the growth of social movements campaigning for more democratic food systems However as each chapter demonstrates both the problems and the solutions in sustainable agriculture are highly contested Using the term agrifood to capture the nexus between research governance and the environment knowledge environment governance this book provides an in depth and wide ranging account of current research around agricultural production and food consumption The book introduces the Anthropocene along with the fundamental question that it poses about human nature interactions It outlines the core concerns related to agriculture and food and the debates around the need for agrifood system transitions Each chapter investigates controversies in the field through case studies These contributions offer a call for sociologists of agriculture and food to engage with the controversies unfolding in the Anthropocene Agriculture and Environmental Change A. M. Mannion, 1995-12-05 This textbook defines the complex nature of agriculture in the context of environmental constraints and social stimuli Attention is paid to plant and animal domestication and to the subsequent spread of agricultural systems worldwide
