,1990 A series of three interconnecting ponds and three streams located on Andrews AFB were analyzed to determine their current ecological status and future potential for sustaining aquatic life Biological analysis consisted of collection enumeration and identification of organisms from the ponds and streams and chemical analysis of water and sediments for ammonia and its derivatives The results indicated that pond 2 is in excellent ecological condition and ponds 1 and 3 are in very good condition and should be able to maintain stocked game fish which are safe for human consumption The stream fed by the pond is also in excellent condition Another stream in the system fed in part by a 60 inch culvert that runs under the flight line is in poor condition due to a high ammonia content These two streams merge the resulting stream maintains a reasonable amount of aquatic biota ttl Keystone Species That Live in Ponds, Streams, and Wetlands Bonnie

Hinman,2015-09 Most arches built today contain a single building block at the top that is the most important piece This special piece can be found in the arches of soaring cathedrals doorways in temples and even simple buildings made out of wooden blocks It is called a keystone and it holds everything else together Remove the keystone and the building or doorway is likely to collapse The same thing is true in nature Certain species of animals and plants are so important to their ecosystems that if they disappear the whole system may collapse They are called keystone species Some keystone species are large like white rhinos while others are quite small like honey bees But size doesn't matter in an ecosystem All living things rely on other species to survive A keystone species plays an especially large role that affects many different species in an ecosystem Some keystone species are at the top of a huge ecosystem like the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem while others may affect a tiny ecosystem in a river or forest Whether the ecosystem is big or small the result of a keystone species disappearing or being greatly reduced is the same Just like one falling domino can cause many others to fall the loss of a keystone species can lead to the extinction of many other species Today scientists are focusing more attention on preserving the natural balance in ecosystems Identifying and protecting keystone species is an important part of their work
