Vann Woodward, 1981-08-01 Arthur Morgan Aaron D. Purcell, 2014-11-28 On May 19 1933 President Franklin D Roosevelt announced the appointment of Arthur Morgan 1879 1975 a water control engineer and college president from Ohio as the chairman of the newly created Tennessee Valley Authority TVA With the eyes of the nation focused on the reform and recovery promised by the New Deal Morgan remained in the national spotlight for much of the 1930s in this thoughtful biography Aaron D Purcell reassesses Morgan's long life and career and provides the first detailed account of his post TVA activities As Purcell demonstrates Morgan embraced an alternative type of Progressive Era reform that was rooted in nineteenth century socialism an overlooked strain in American political thought Purcell pinpoints Morgan's reading of Edward Bellamy's Looking Backward while a teenager as a watershed moment in the development of his vision for building modern American society He recounts Morgan's early successes as an engineer budding Progressive leader and educational reformer his presidency of Antioch College and his revolutionary but contentious tenure at the TVA After his dismissal from the TVA Morgan eventually published over a dozen books including a biography of Bellamy while supporting community building efforts across the globe Morgan retained many of his late nineteenth century beliefs including eugenics as part of his societal vision His authoritarian administrative style and moral rigidity limited his ability to attract large numbers to his community based vision By presenting Morgan s life and career within the context of the larger social and cultural events of his day this revealing biographical study offers new insight into the achievements and motivations of an important but historically neglected American reformer Book jacket Yellow Fever and Public Health in the New South John H. Ellis,2021-12-14 The public health movement in the South began in the wake of a yellow fever epidemic that devastated the lower Mississippi Valley in 1878 a disaster that caused 20 000 deaths and financial losses of nearly 200 million The full scale of the epidemic and the tentative troubled southern response to it are for the first time fully examined by John Ellis in this new book At the national level southern congressional leaders fought to establish a strong federal health agency but they were defeated by the young American Public Health Association which defended states rights Local responses and results were mixed In New Orleans business and professional men reacting to the denunciation of the city as the nation s pesthole organized in 1879 to improve drainage garbage disposal and water supplies through voluntary subscription Their achievements were of necessity modest In Memphis the city hardest hit by the epidemic a new municipal government in 1879 helped form the first regional health organization and during the 1880s led the nation in sanitary improvements In Atlanta though it largely escaped the epidemic the Constitution and some citizens called for health reform Ironically their voices were drowned out by ritual invocation of local health mythology and by unabashed exploitation of the stigma of pestilence attached to New Orleans and Memphis By 1890 Atlanta rivaled Charleston and Richmond for primacy in black mortality rates That the public health movement met with only limited success Ellis attributes to the prevailing atmosphere of opportunistic greed overwhelming debt economic instability and inordinate political corruption But the effort to combat a terrifying disease not fully understood did eventually produce changes and the vastly improved health systems of today Region, Race and Cities: Interpreting the Urban South David R. Goldfield,1997 Last Train To Memphis Peter Guralnick,2020-04-30 This is the first of two volumes that make up what is arguably the definitive Elvis biography Rich in documentary and interview material this volume charts Elvis early years and his rise to fame taking us up to his departure for Germany in 1958 Of all the biographies of Elvis this is the one you will keep coming back to No Depression in Heaven Alison Collis Greene,2016 A study of the inability of the churches to deal with the crisis of the Great Depression and the shift from church based aid to a federal welfare state
