Merton College Alan Bott,1993      Oxford Geoffrey Tyack,1998 Few cities have a greater concentration of significant architecture than Oxford Within a city of only 130 000 inhabitants there are important buildings many of them of great beauty from every period from the eleventh century down to the present Geoffrey Tyack chronicles the architectural development of Oxford both University and City from its origins to the late twentieth century explaining the idiosyncracies of Oxford s architectural history and placing the buildings within their historical context His approach is chronological and his emphasis on what can actually be seen Although many books have been written about individual buildings and various aspects of Oxford architecture no book of this kind has been published for many years      Merton College Alan Bott,2015

A Short History of the English People John Richard Green,1902      A short history of the English people. Illustr. ed., ed. by Mrs. J.R. Green and K. Norgate John Richard Green,1902      Building a New Jerusalem Francis J. Bremer,2012-11-27

The life of John Davenport who co founded the colony of New Haven has long been overshadowed by his reputation as the most draconian of all Puritan leaders in New England a reputation he earned due to his opposition to many of the changes that were transforming New England in the post Restoration era In this first biography of Davenport Francis J Bremer shows that he was in many ways actually a remarkably progressive leader for his time with a strong commitment to education for both women and men a vibrant interest in new science and a dedication to promoting and upholding democratic principles in his congregation at a time when many other Puritan clergymen were emphasizing the power of their office above all else Bremer s enlightening and accessible biography of an important figure in New England history provides a unique perspective on the seventeenth century transatlantic Puritan movement      The Medieval English Landscape, 1000-1540 Graeme J.

White,2012-09-06 The landscape of medieval England was the product of a multitude of hands While the power to shape the landscape inevitably lay with the Crown the nobility and the religious houses this study also highlights the contribution of the peasantry in the layout of rural settlements and ridge and furrow field works and the funding of parish churches by ordinary townsfolk The importance of population trends is emphasised as a major factor in shaping the medieval landscape the rising curve of the eleventh to thirteenth centuries imposing growing pressures on resources and the devastating impact of the Black Death leading to radical decline in the fourteenth century Opening with a broad ranging analysis of political and economic trends in medieval England the book progresses thematically to assess the impact of farming rural settlement towns the Church and fortification using many original case studies The concluding chapter charts the end of the medieval landscape with the dissolution of the monasteries the replacement of castles by country houses the ongoing enclosure of fields and the growth of towns      Greater Medieval Houses of England and Wales, 1300-1500: Volume 3, Southern England Anthony Emery,2006-03-09 This is the third volume of Anthony Emery s magisterial survey Greater Medieval Houses of England and Wales 1300 1500 first published in 2006 Across the three volumes Emery has examined afresh and re assessed over 750 houses the first comprehensive review of the subject for 150 years Covered are the full range of leading homes from royal and episcopal palaces to manor houses as well as community buildings such as academic colleges monastic granges and secular colleges of canons This volume surveys Southern England and is divided into three regions each of which includes a separate historical and architectural introduction as well as thematic essays prompted by key buildings The text is complemented throughout by a wide range of plans and diagrams and a wealth of photographs showing the present condition of almost every house discussed This is an essential source for anyone interested in the history architecture and culture of medieval England and Wales

Brought Up Of Nought Lynda J. Pidgeon ,2019-12-08 Described as greedy and grasping and raised from nothing the Woodvilles have had a bad press Brought Up of Nought investigates the family origins explains the rise and fall of the senior branch and how the junior branch rose to the highest levels of court society after struggling to establish itself in Northamptonshire The family originally rose to the status of baron but lost land over time as it descended to the gentry however the medieval wheel of fortune was to turn dramatically in favour of the junior branch in Northamptonshire Early in the 15th century Richard the son of Richard Woodville Esq was placed in the service of John Duke of Bedford at his court in Rouen which resulted in his secret marriage to the duke's young widow Jacquetta In 1464 their daughter Elizabeth made an extraordinary marriage to Edward IV which attracted great criticism resulting in a period of slander that continues to this day This book argues that the Woodville's blackened reputation was the result of a campaign by Richard Earl of Warwick who was jealous and eager to retrieve his position as kingmaker
