Politics Of Ballistic Missile Nonproliferation:

The Politics of Ballistic Missile Nonproliferation W. Bowen, 2000-01-20 During the presidency of George Bush 1989-93 the proliferation of nuclear chemical and biological weapons and the ballistic missiles capable of delivering them rose greatly in significance as issues on the American security agenda In the missile field this became evident by the efforts of certain elements in the executive branch and several congressmen to improve domestic and international implementation of the Missile Technology Control Regime The Politics of Ballistic Missile Nonproliferation examines the political bureaucratic and systemic issues that interacted to determine the outcome of these efforts

The Politics of Ballistic Missile Nonproliferation Wyn Q. Bowen, 1997 Non-Proliferation Export Controls Daniel Joyner, 2017-03-02 This volume provides a comprehensive and interdisciplinary examination of the Multilateral Non Proliferation Export Control system and the national and international context within which it functions Key features The Politics of Nuclear Non-Proliferation Ursula

Jasper, 2013-10-08 This book examines the puzzle of why some states acquire nuclear weapons whereas others refrain from trying to do so or even renounce them Based on the predominant theoretical thinking in International Relations it is often assumed that nuclear proliferation is inevitable given the anarchic nature of the international system Proliferation is thus often explained by vague references to states insecurity in an anarchic environment Yet elusive generalisations and grand abstract theories inhibit a more profound and detailed knowledge of the very political processes that lead towards nuclearisation or its reversal Drawing upon the philosophical and social theoretical insights of American pragmatism The Politics of Nuclear Non Proliferation provides a theoretically innovative and practically useful framework for the analysis of states nuclear proliferation policies Rather than recounting a parsimonious lean account of proliferation the framework allows for the incorporation of multiple paradigms in order to depict the complex political contestation underlying states proliferation decisions This pragmatist framework of analysis offers ways of overcoming long standing metatheoretical gridlocks in the IR discipline and encourages scholars to reorient their efforts towards imminent real world challenges This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation international security and IR theory International

Nuclear Export Controls and Non-Proliferation Ian J. Stewart, 2021-09-27 This book examines the evolution of international nuclear non proliferation trade controls over time The book argues that the international nuclear export controls have developed in a sub optimal way as a result of a non proliferation collective action problem This has resulted in competition among suppliers owing to the absence of an overarching effective system of control While efforts have been undertaken to address this collective action problem and strengthen controls over time these measures have been inherently limited it is argued here because of the same structural factors and vested interests that led to the creation of the problem in the first place This study examines international controls from the beginning of the nuclear age and early efforts to control the atom up to more recent times and the challenge posed by Iranian and North Korean nuclear ambitions Drawing on a rich body of original archival research and interviews the book demonstrates that the collective action problem has restrained cooperation in preventing nuclear proliferation and that gaps persist in the international nuclear trade control regime This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation and arms control security studies and International Relations

Tuning Priorities in Nuclear Arms Control and Non-Proliferation A. Nikitin, M.B. Mærli, 2008-02-28 This publication contributes to the discussion about better understanding and mutual tuning of Russian and Western approaches to strengthening the nuclear non proliferation regime responding to situations like those in Iran and North Korea synchronizing priorities in the elimination of excessive fissile materials and most of all in the preservation of existing and the development of new agreements in nuclear arms control and nuclear disarmament An important aspect of this is raising awareness of the current crisis in nuclear arms control Such international inter agency and cross cultural dialogue provides an opportunity for maintaining the wide ranging dialogue required for strengthening arms control arrangements and for establishing new ones with clearly defined and measurable scopes and verification systems

Containing Missile Proliferation Dinshaw Mistry, 2011-12-01 The proliferation of ballistic missiles that can deliver weapons of mass destruction halfway across the world is a matter of growing urgency and concern as is the fate of agreements limiting the development of such deadly weapons The Bush administration s scrapping of the ABM Treaty and pursuit of a huge National Missile Defense initiative are dramatic evidence of this concern Yet there remains much uncertainty about the viability of missile defense If defenses fall short strong security regimes will be necessary to contain missile proliferation Since 1987 more than thirty states have agreed to restrict their transfer of missiles and related technologies under the Missile Technology Control Regime MTCR During the MTCR s first decade several regional powers were thwarted from advancing their missile ambitions Subsequently however states such as North Korea Iran Pakistan India and Israel have tested medium range missiles and others have expanded their missile arsenals Dinshaw Mistry critically examines the successes and limitations of the MTCR and suggests five practical ways to strengthen the regime The author s exhaustive research offers new and detailed insights on the technology and politics of missile programs in Iran Iraq North Korea Pakistan India Israel Egypt South Korea Taiwan and other countries Mistry also shows how international cooperation security regimes and U S foreign policies of engagement and containment with these states can halt their missile programs Mistry s book is the first comprehensive study of the MTCR and of international efforts to contain missile proliferation Policymakers scholars and the general reader will find this book a valuable contribution to the subjects of arms control ballistic missile proliferation multilateral cooperation and international security regimes For the author s update go to <http://www.washington.edu/uwpress/books/UpdateApril2009.pdf>

Asian Space Race: Rhetoric or Reality? Ajey Lele, 2012-10-20 This book explores the character and contours of the Asian Space Powers At present Asian states like China Japan and India are found investing in space technologies with analogous social and scientific and probably with divergent military intents Other Asian states like

Israel South Korea and Malaysia are also making investments in the space arena States like Iran and North Korea are faulted for using space launches as a demonstrative tool to achieve strategic objectives This work examines this entire maze of activities to unearth where these states are making these investments to accomplish their state specific goal or are they also trying to surpass each other by engaging in competition Explaining why and how these states are making investments towards achieving their socio economic and strategic mandate this book infers that the possibility of Asian Space Race exists but is presently fairly diminutive

The Globalization of Political Violence Richard Devetak, Christopher W. Hughes, 2007-12-18 The events of the 11th of September 2001 revealed most dramatically that globalization has a shadow While large sections of the world's population enjoy the perceived benefits of globalization others seek to utilize globalization for their own politically violent purposes If 9 11 demonstrated anything it is that globalization can as readily facilitate violence and insecurity as it can produce stability prosperity and political order This edited volume offers important new methodological and multi disciplinary insights into the study of globalization and political violence It brings together studies from various disciplines in order to address the precise nature of the relationship between globalization and political violence as it seeks to offer new theoretical and empirical understandings of the types of actors involved in political violence either as perpetrators or victims Examples of the studies include the changing character of state militaries and state to state conflict under globalization the emergence of new wars fuelled by globalization the role of state militaries in intervention new forms of violence directed by states against refugees and anti globalization protesters the role of terrorist actors post 9 11 networks for the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and the rise of private military firms amongst others The Globalization of Political Violence will be of interest to students and researchers of politics international relations security studies and international political economy
