Alan Frizzell

Pollution Green Issues:

Major Environmental Issues Facing the 21st Century Mary K. Theodore, Louis Theodore, 1996 This work intended for informed non technical readers provides an objective overview of important environmental issues The book starts with the traditional topics of air land and water pollution but also presents newer issues including solid waste management the greenhouse effect electromagnetic fields and questions of environmental equity The authors also focus on how to prevent the pollution in the first place rather than on simply cleaning it up afterwards

Shades of Green Alan Frizzell, 1997-05-15 Is there a real community of interest on the state of the environment that transcends national boundaries An answer to this vital question will ultimately determine the success or failure of initiatives where international co operation and co ordination are essential such as atmospheric or water pollution controls Shades of Green volume two of the ISSP International Social Survey Programme series analyzes data from identical surveys conducted in 22 countries and tackles a wide range of attitudes and priorities Expectations of government in terms of environmental protection a comparison of Canada U S results the level of knowledge on environmental issues from country to country the perceived role for science in solving ecological problems and attitudinal differences between the West and states of the former Soviet Union these issues have serious implications for the environmental movement and government policies worldwide

Global Environmental Issues Frances Harris, 2005-01-28 Meeting the needs of upper level students this book treats global environmental problems as complex issues with a network of human and biophysical causes Each chapter interlinks human demands on the Earth s resources to natural biophysical change not simply a cause and effect treatment of global issues and environmental change Includes coverage of contemporary hot topics such as biodiversity urbanisation and sustainable development Global case studies two per chapter contextualise theory for students This book should have considerable appeal among undergraduate and postgraduate students in a broad range of disciplines Frances Harris has assembled a team of well qualified authors who between them consider such important environmental issues as climate and sea level change biodiversity GM crops energy supply urbanization pollution and sustainable development The style is clear and non technical the coverage is global and the text is supported by numerous figures and illustrations Boxed case studies provide useful exemplification of general issues I have no doubt that this book will be very popular with my own students in providing detailed analysis of a range of key environmental issues which are frequently reported in the media Tony Binns University of Sussex UK This book usefully realises that environmental issues are a complex blend of contested science broader socio political contexts and the concerns values attitudes and livelihoods of individuals Written by internationally recognised authors it covers major global issues such as pollution energy climate change sea level rise food production urbanisation and sustainability in an informative way with abundant case studies and illustrations which clearly exemplify just how complex the facets of the issues can be It does not offer easy solutions but it is a good exercise in awareness for the reader Stephen Trudgill Robinson College University of

Cambridge UK Environmental Issues Today Robert J. Duffy, Susan M. Opp, 2020-11-09 This two volume set provides an authoritative overview of the major environmental issues of the 21st century with a special focus on current challenges trends and policy choices This set provides an up to date comprehensive and focused resource for understanding the nature and scope of environmental challenges facing the United States and the world in the 21st century as well as options for meeting those challenges Volume One covers environmental trends and challenges within the United States while Volume Two illuminates environmental issues and choices around the world Issues covered in both volumes include vital topics such as climate change air and water pollution natural resource and species protection and agricultural industrial impacts on the environment and public health For all topics the authors scholars and experts hailing from a wide range of environmental and policy fields detail a range of political social and economic options for the future and explain why the issue in question is important for society and people as well as the natural world Current Environmental Issues and Challenges Giacomo Cao, Roberto Orrù, 2014-04-29 Few books currently exist that cover such a wide spectrum of topics The chapters dealing with air pollution from mobile sources air pollution and health effects and air quality modelling fall into the air pollution category while the ones related to microalgae for carbon dioxide sequestration biofuels production fuel cells and solar energy technology respectively can be ascribed to the energy topic Several technologies to handle a wide spectrum of environmental pollutants are taken into account in numerous chapters The chapter on biodiversity is clearly related to the conservation issue while the water pollution subject is tackled by the chapter on water quality monitoring Finally a general analysis on green business as well as a chapter on grid cloud computing technology for collaborative problem solving and shared resources management conclude the work Because of its breadth of coverage this book is particularly useful as a graduate text Environmental Pollution and the Media Glenn D. Hook, Libby Lester, Meng Ji, Kingsley Edney, Chris G. Pope, Luli van der Does-Ishikawa, 2017-04-07 This book offers a theoretically informed empirical investigation of national media reporting and political discourse on environmental issues in Australia China and Japan It illuminates the risks harms and responsibilities associated with climate change through an analysis of pollution adopting an interdisciplinary approach drawing on both the social sciences and humanities A particular strength of the work is the detailed analysis of the data using a range of both quantitative and qualitative techniques enabling the authors to reveal in rich and compelling detail the complex relationship between risk and responsibility in the climate change discourse The case studies of Australia China and Japan are set in the current literature as well as in the historical context of climate change in these three countries The analysis of the media discourse on the Great Barrier Reef in Australia demonstrates how the mining of coal for overseas markets has led to devastating harm to the life of the reef A critical discussion of the Chinese documentary Under the Dome shows how this medium has played a crucial role in building awareness of the harm from atmospheric pollution among the citizens shaping attitudes and promoting action The first case study of Japan elucidates how cross border atmospheric pollution from China forges a chain of responsibility for responding to climate change running from the state to society The other case study of Japan demonstrates how smart cities have emerged as a way to mitigate the risks and harms of climate change The Conclusion draws together the similarities and differences in how climate change is addressed in the three countries In all Environmental Pollution and the Media Political Discourses of Risk and Responsibility in Australia China and Japan uncovers the dynamics of the triadic relationship among risk harm and climate change in Australia China and Japan By so doing the book makes an original and timely contribution to understanding comparative media discourse and political debates on climate change Routledge International Handbook of Green Criminology Nigel South, Avi

Environmental education in the schools creating a program that works. , The Politics of Environmental Performance Detlef Jahn,2016-10-27 As the world faces the prospect of climate change nuclear disasters and water scarcity it is clear that environmental degradation is an increasingly serious challenge with economic and social consequences In this book Detlef Jahn analyzes political processes in a macro comparative study in order to estimate the role of politics in the field of environmental performance in twenty one OECD countries His model demonstrates various styles of politics used to combat environmental degradation He finds that economic and environmental performance are still closely linked and that moving towards a service society does not by itself solve the environmental challenge The close relationship of these areas was made strikingly clear in the economic crisis of the new millennium He argues that economic globalization fosters environmental deterioration and undermines efforts in domestic politics and international coordination to improve the environmental record Environmental Issues in Latin America and the Caribbean Aldemaro Romero,Sarah E. West,2006-02-23 We began this book with a simple goal to assemble a collection of readings for an undergraduate interdisciplinary course taught by one of us AR at Macalester College This course explored environmental problems and solutions in Latin America and the Caribbean using both natural science and social science methods After a literature search failed to produce an anthology of interdisciplinary readings appropriate for the course we set out to compile one We sought papers that dealt with the most salient environmental problems in the region that were written by experts and that were appropriate for undergraduate students Most importantly we sought papers that clearly demonstrate the contributions that experts from one discipline can make to analysis in another discipline We sought papers that for example show how biological species assessments can be used to inform the politics of biodiversity conservation We sought papers that show how economic analysis can be used to predict the likely effects of human behavior on ecosystems We sought papers that pay close attention to how institutions both national and international affect the outcome of environmental initiatives To find essays that fit our needs we sent out a world wide call for papers chose the most promising submissions and subjected these submissions to peer review The twelve approved essays represent the work of researchers from Latin America and the Caribbean the United States Canada Europe and Australia All the authors have direct experience with Latin America and the Caribbean and the region s problems
