Redesigning Library Services A Manifesto:

Redesigning Library Services Michael Keeble Buckland, 1992 This blueprint provides a new framework within which to attempt to understand and to plan library services in the future Reimagining the Academic Library David W. Lewis, 2016-05-04 Academic libraries are in the midst of significant disruption Academic librarians and university administrators know they need to change but are not sure how Bits and pieces of what needs to happen are clear but the whole picture is hard to grasp Reimagining the Academic Library paints a simple straightforward picture of the changes affecting academic libraries and what academic librarians need to do to respond to the changes would help to guide future library practice The aim is to explain where academic libraries need to go and how to get there in a book that can be read in a weekend David Lewis provides a readable survey of the current state of academic library practice and proposes where academic libraries need to go in the future to provide value to their campuses His primary focus is on collections as this is the area with the greatest opportunity for change and is the driver of most library cost Lewis provides an accessible framework for thinking about how library practice needs to adjust in the digital environment The book will be useful not only to academic librarians but also for librarians to share with presidents and provosts who a concise source for understanding where and how to focus their expenditures on libraries Planning Our Future Libraries Kim Leeder, Eric Frierson, 2013-11-12 This thought provoking collection will challenge librarians at every kind of institution to start planning today for the library of tomorrow Libraries as User-centered Organizations Meredith A. Butler, 1993 How do we begin to assess the impact of economic technological demographic and management trends in our environment and understand the long term implications How can administrators managers and information professionals take advantage of these trends How can librarians empower staff and change organizational hierarchies to create more responsive and rewarding environments How do we restructure organizations to make them more learning and student centered and more responsive to the needs of new clienteles These are just a few of the questions addressed in Libraries as User Centered Organizations which examines organizational change from the point of view that academic institutions are experiencing a paradigm shift in the definition of their mission their focus and their activities As librarians move into a new paradigm of library as gateway and connector they must also shift their focus from the information product to the user of information This profound change in vision is explored in this book through the concept of user centeredness a focus on the habits needs desires dislikes abilities and preferences of the user Libraries as User Centered Organizations explores a variety of important aspects of organizational change including leadership styles sustaining and expanding staff empowerment and creativity collaboration between libraries and computer centers creating multicultural organizations remolding the library science educational structure organizational change in professional associations Libraries as User Centered Organizations looks at current trends affecting higher education research libraries professional education for librarians professional associations and publishing from the point of view of some of the leaders in these fields and offers readers a context for viewing organizational change The book is of particular assistance to library administrators and educators engaged in planning for change and rethinking operations and services

Information Tomorrow Rachel Singer Gordon, 2007 In Information Tomorrow Rachel Singer Gordon brings together 20 of today's top thinkers on the intersections between libraries and technology They address various ways in which new technologies are impacting library services and share their ideas for using technology to meet patrons where they are In addition to a preface by the editor the book's foreword by Stephen Abram and 16 chapters feature insights and opinions from these library leaders bloggers and futurists

Research 2.0 and the Future of Information Literacy Tibor Koltay, Sonja Spiranec, Laszlo Z Karvalics, 2016-01-22 Research 2.0 and the Future of Information Literacy examines possible congruencies between information literacy and Research 2.0 because the work of today's researcher mobilizes a number of literacies From among the various types of relevant literacies at least three types of literacies can be mentioned in this relation information literacy scientific literacy and academic literacy This book addresses these literacies in the light of the changing research landscape Broad contexts of the researcher's abilities as adaptive and innovative thinking problem solving skills self management and design mindset are also examined Computational thinking and the computational paradigm in a number of fields of research are taken into consideration as well Researchers differ to non researchers when populating social media which means that these two different groups require different literacies The relationship between information literacy and information is approached in a new way Among the multitude of issues we introduce a new interface between information literacy and Research 2.0 It encompasses the issues of research data management and data literacy which represent also a challenge both for the academic library and for the communities of researchers Similarly the questions of new metrics of scientific output are addressed in the book Summarizes the most important and up to date approaches towards Research 2.0 including researchers skills and abilities the data intensive paradigm of scientific research open science not forgetting about factors that inhibit a wider uptake of Research 2.0 Discusses the nature of information literacy in the light of its definitions declarations and related frameworks and by outlining the new literacies context reading and writing the cultural context and the turns of library and information science Numerous literacies other than information literacy its relationship to information overload and personal information management are also subject of the book Theoretical and practical perspectives are given to enable the understanding of the transformations of information literacy and its relationship to Research 2.0

Convergence of Libraries and Technology Organizations Christopher Barth, 2011-06-15 This book describes and discusses the convergence of library and technology support in higher education Over the past 15 years a number of institutions have pursued merging library and technology services into a single information support organization These mergers have taken different forms but all seek to redefine information support in a 21st century model that promotes the interdisciplinary use of information The coming years will see significant change affect libraries with the continuing disruption of the Internet and digitally based services Coupled with economic pressures libraries and technology organizations will increasingly be forced to look closely at long held assumptions of how their teams are organized and how work is divided and shared Convergence of Libraries and Technology Organizations provides useful and practical guidance on converged information organizations as an effective response to change in the information profession One of the most complete assessments of converged support models available Designed to both allow assessment of the application of a converged model and discussion of successful implementations Includes experiences perspectives and examples from many leaders in converged information support organizations

What are Archives? Louise Craven, 2016-02-11 This collection of essays breaks new ground in archival studies in the UK where professional archival texts have traditionally concentrated on the how not the why of archival work Studies of the theoretical role of for example the archive and the text or the archive and political power have meanwhile been undertaken in other academic disciplines where there is an established forum for the discussion of related issues This book invites the archivist to join that arena of debate whilst appealing to all those interested in archives from other disciplines the authors encourage archivists to step away from the practicalities of keeping archives to consider what it is they actually do in the cultural context of the early 21st century The wider context of technological innovation and the internet form the backdrop to this collection The book explores change and continuity in the archival paradigm the textual nature of archives and asks if views of manuscripts and personal papers are changing it looks at specific developments in community archives at concepts of identity and culture in archives and it presents the fruits of innovative studies of users of archives Taken together these essays written by leading experts in the field provide a new understanding of the role of the archive today The Changing Academic Library John Budd, 2018 Previous edition published Chicago Association of College and Research Libraries 2005 Multimedia Information Resources Paul Terence McNally, 1997 Libraries have incorporated multimedia resources into their collections and make them accessible to users This book provides practical guidelines for librarians and educators for developing organising and managing a multimedia collection Chapters cover collection development bibliographic organisation storage user access hardware and copyright The book also examines specific media including new technologies of the past decade Practical advice is given on selecting and organising multimedia collections
